Scripturalizing the Human Vincent L. Wimbush,2015-07-16 Scripturalizing the Human is a transdisciplinary collection of essays that reconceptualizes and models scriptural studies as a critical comparative set of practices with broad ramifications for scholars of religion and biblical studies This critical historical and ethnographic project is focused on scriptures scripturalization scripturalizing as shorthand for the psycho cultural and socio political work we make language do for and to us Each essay focuses on an instance of or situation involving such work engaging with the Bible Book of Mormon Bhagavata Purana and other sacred texts artifacts and practices in order to explore historical and ongoing constructions of the human Contributors use the category of scriptures understood not simply as texts but as freighted shorthand for the dynamics and ultimate politics of language as tools for self illumination and self analysis The significance of the collection lies in the window it opens to the rich and complex view of the highs and lows of human un making as it establishes the connections between a seemingly basic and apolitical religious category and a set of larger social cultural phenomena and dynamics

Taking Their Word Arturo Arias, Central Americans are one of the largest Latino population groups in the United States Yet Arturo Arias argues the cultural production of Central Americans remains little known to North Americans In Taking Their Word Arias complicates notions of the cultural production of Central America from Mexico in the North to Panama in the South He charts the literature of Central America s liberation struggles of the 1970s and 1980s its transformation after peace treaties were signed the emergence of a new Maya literature that decenters Latin American literature written in Spanish and the rise and fall of testimonio Arias demonstrates that Central America and its literature are marked by an indigenusness that has never before been fully theorized or critically grasped Never one to avoid controversy

Arias proffers his views of how the immigration of Central Americans to North America has changed the cultural topography of both zones With this groundbreaking work Arias establishes the importance of Central American literature and provides a frame for future studies of the region s culture Arturo Arias is director of Latin American studies at the University of Redlands He is the author of six novels in Spanish and editor of The Rigoberta Mench Controversy Minnesota 2001

Philosophy in Multiple Voices George Yancy, 2007-08-05 Philosophy in Multiple Voices invites transactional dialogue critical imagination and the desire to travel to enter those discursive spaces where the love of wisdom gets inflected through both lived embodiment and situational history The text raises significant meta philosophical questions around the issue of who constitutes the philosophical we through a delineation and valorization of multiple philosophical voices African American Afro Caribbean Asian American Feminist Latin American Lesbian Native American and Queer that set forth complex concerns around canon formation the relationship between philosophical discursive configurations and issues of gendered sexed racial and ethnic identities the dynamic of shifting philosophical historical trajectories differential philosophical visions sensibilities and philosophical praxes that are still largely underrepresented within the institutional confines of mainstream philosophy The text encourages philosophical heterogeneity as a value that ought to be nurtured
