On April 20, 2018, Priyankar Khandelwal was furious as he watched the stock value from his fund seemingly evaporate right in front of his eyes. Khandelwal, the fund manager at Principal First, had been managing the mid-sized information technology (IT) fund for the previous five years.

Khandelwal asked his assistant to put in a sell order to cover his long position² in Vakrangee Limited (Vakrangee) at a substantial loss. He had bought the stock in the beginning of October 2017. The stock hit a high in January 2018 but had subsequently been sliding (see Exhibit 1). In his fund, Khandelwal had allocated a substantial amount to Vakrangee in the initial investment. Based on the current market price of the stock, there was a net loss of ₹169 million³ and a loss of ₹592 million unrealized from the top for the fund.⁴ This loss caused the net asset value of the fund to fall by 35 per cent year to date, because Khandelwal had not hedged his position.

Khandelwal's clients were irate, and more than 25 per cent of his firm's investors had withdrawn their money from the fund. Principal First had also reprimanded him and put him on notice.

Khandelwal wondered where he went wrong in his analysis of Vakrangee. He had done the valuation exercise himself, checked and cross-checked his assumptions, looked at industry and credit reports, and had found it to be a good stock with good future prospects. What had he missed? What could he have done better?
