the legend Kelly's stark black silhouette gave Nolan his most powerful poetic metaphor for Australians' relationship with their land. The text is by Andrew Sayers, Director of the National Portrait Gallery, Canberra, and Murray Bail, whose novels include the prize-winning Eucalyptus.

Reading the Bible in Australia Deborah R. Storie, Barbara Deutschmann, Michelle Eastwood, 2024-01-03. Reading the Bible in Australia invites reflection about how the Bible matters to Australia. Contributors probe intersections between vital debates about Australian identity: who we have been, are, and aspire to become, and the Bible bringing a range of perspectives to critical themes: indigeneity, colonization, and migration; landscape, biodiversity, and climate; gender and marginality; economics, ideology, and rhetoric. Each chapter explores the past and present influence of a biblical text or theme. Some offer fresh contextually and ethically informed readings. All interrogate the wider outcomes of reading the Bible in different ways. Given the tragic consequences of how it has been used historically, and sometimes still is, some Australians would exclude the Bible and its interpreters from public debate. Yet as Meredith Lake's The Bible in Australia demonstrates, a degree of biblical literacy, along with critical skill in evaluating how the Bible has been taken up and interpreted in our history, can only help Australians grapple well with the choices Australia faces. Love it or hate it, there is no getting around the reality that the Bible, and how it is read, still matters.

Australian Art Andrew Sayers, 2001. This comprehensive survey uniquely covers both Aboriginal art and that of European Australians, providing a revealing examination of the interaction between the two. Painting, bark art, photography, rock art, sculpture, and the decorative arts are all fully explored to present the rich texture of Australian art traditions. Well-known artists such as Margaret Preston, Rover Thomas, and Sidney Nolan are all discussed, as are the natural history illustrators, Aboriginal draughtsmen, and pastellists whose work is only now being brought to light by new research. Taking the European colonization of the continent in 1788 as his starting point, Sayers highlights important issues concerning colonial art and women artists in this fascinating new story of Australian art.

Word & Image in Colonial and Postcolonial Literatures and Cultures Michael Meyer, 2009. Verbal imagery and visual images, as well as the intricate relationships between verbal and visual representations, have long shaped the imagination and the practice of intercultural relationships. The contributions to this volume take a fresh look at the ideology of form, especially the gendered and racial implications of the gaze and the voice in various media and intermedial transformations. Analyses of how culturally specific forms of visual and verbal expression are individually understood and manipulated complement reflections on the potential and limitations of representation. The juxtaposition of visual and verbal signifiers explores the gap between them as a space beyond cultural boundaries. Topics treated include Caliban, English satirical iconotexts, Oriental travel writing and illustration, expatriate description and picturesque illustration of Edinburgh, ethnographic film, African studio photography, South African cartoons, imagery, ekphrasis, and race in South African art and fiction, face and visuality, representation and memory in Asian fiction, Bollywood, Asian historical film, Asian British pop music, Australian landscape in painting and fiction, indigenous children's fiction from Aotearoa, New Zealand, Canada, and the USA.
