Sight For Sound:

Sight and Sound, 2006      The Films of Fred Schepisi Brian McFarlane, 2021-11-15 Fred Schepisi is one of the crucial names associated with the revival of the Australian film industry in the 1970s. The Films of Fred Schepisi traces the lead up to his critical successes in feature filmmaking via his earlier award winning success as a producer in advertising commercials in the 1960s and the setting up of his own company. Unlike some directors he derived from this experience a sure sense of the commercial aspects of filmmaking as well as its aesthetic considerations. The volume also considers stories of his early education in a Catholic seminary which he drew on in his semiautobiographical film The Devil's Playground the success of which launched him as an exciting new feature director. The volume expands on Schepisi's success story to chart his development as a director in demand in other countries notably in the US and the UK as well as continuing to make major films in Australia. Brian McFarlane argues that Schepisi's career is symptomatic of Australian directors who have made their presences felt on the international stage. Whereas other key directors of the Australian film revival such as Peter Weir and Bruce Beresford have been the subject of book length critical studies Schepisi's career has not to date been so explored. McFarlane takes a critical account of Schepisi's film output including such standouts as The Chant of Jimmie Blacksmith, Plenty, Roxanne, Six Degrees of Separation, Mr Baseball and Last Orders and he augments analysis with interviews with the director. By discussing the production histories and both critical and popular receptions McFarlane's study shines a new light on Schepisi's work and his rise to prominence in the global film industry.

Child Development Laura Berk, 2015-05-20 Child Development      Sight, Sound and Text in the History of Education Jody Crutchley, Stephen Parker, Siân Roberts, 2020-06-29

This volume contributes to the study of new sonic and visual sources and their intertextual relationship with the documentary as well as traditional understandings of text in the history of education. It both presents case studies of research and points to new avenues of further research. This volume arose from a joint conference of the History of Education Society UK and the Australian and New Zealand History of Education Society held in 2016 on the theme sight sound and text in the history of education. The conference drew together educational and media historians as well as archivists and museum professionals to examine methodological issues and a range of examples of sensory and textual histories. The event from which this book arose showed that there is so much more to consider in this area. This book was originally published as a special issue of History of Education.

Shakespeare's Auditory Worlds Walter W. Cannon, Laury Magnus, 2020-10-27 Inspired by the verbal exuberance and richness of all that can be heard by audiences both on and off Shakespeare's stages, Shakespeare's Auditory Worlds examines such special listening situations as overhearing eavesdropping and asides. It breaks new ground by exploring the complex relationships between sound and sight, dialogue and blocking, dialects and other languages, revoicings and finally nonverbal or metaverbal relationships inherent in noise, sounds and music, staging interstices that have been largely overlooked in the critical literature on aurality in Shakespeare. Its contributors include David Bevington, Ralph Alan Cohen, Steve Urkowitz and Leslie Dunn and in a concluding Virtual Roundtable section, six seasoned repertory actors of the American Shakespeare Center as well as who discuss their nuanced hearing experiences on stage. Their hearing invites us to understand the multiple dimensions of Shakespeare's auditory world from the vantage point of actors who are listening in the round to what they hear from their onstage interlocutors, from offstage and backstage cues from the musicians' galleries and often most interestingly from their audiences.

Understanding Cognitive Development Maggie McGonigle-Chalmers, 2015-03-19 Understanding Cognitive Development provides a fresh evidence-based research perspective on the story of children's cognitive development in the first ten years of human life. Starting with a brief survey of the key theoretical positions that have come to define developmental psychology, the textbook then focuses on the different cognitive abilities as they emerge throughout early development. Uniquely, it examines these in terms of their interdependence: that is, how skills such as perception, memory, language and reasoning relate to one another. This holistic treatment allows students to see the many important intersections in this critical phase of human life development. This textbook employs a novel design that will be of immense help to both students and instructors and is intended to be read at two levels. At the first level, it provides a fully referenced explanatory account of experimental research on cognitive development with complete attention to the needs of students who have never been exposed to experimental methodology nor studies in cognitive development before. At the second level, and mapped directly onto numbered sub-sections within the text, the author uses illustrative panels designed along the lines of PowerPoint presentations to summarise studies and key findings, employing lots of pictorial material together with bullet points to give vividness and texture to the material covered.

These panels are replicated on the accompanying companion website in PowerPoint for lecturers and students to make further use of in teaching and revision. Revision points are provided at the end of every chapter. Rich in academic coverage including a widespread database of the most important empirical research in the field, this textbook will be essential reading for students of cognitive development and developmental psychology across psychology and education.

Irresistible Dictation Steven Meyer, 2001. Before Gertrude Stein became the twentieth century's preeminent experimental writer, she spent a decade conducting research at Harvard's psychological laboratory and the Johns Hopkins Medical School. This book shows how her extensive scientific training continued to exert a profound influence on the development of her extraordinary literary practices.

Writings on Subaltern Practice Ahmar Mahboob, 2023-11-09. Subaltern theory emerged as a small voice within academia decades ago. Over time, this work generated significant debate and numerous publications, talks, and conferences. However, little has changed in the experienced lives of the masses. This led people to wonder: the subalterns seem to have a voice, but can they take action? Or in other words, is there subaltern practice? This collection of essays and poems, written with a broad audience in mind, hopes to demonstrate not just how the subaltern can identify and question hegemonic practices, but how they can create alternative frameworks and material that enable themselves and their communities. In doing so, this book aims to demonstrate not just how deep the colonial poisons run, but also how to detoxify ourselves and the environment around us. The writings included in this book study the inequalities that we experience in and around us and suggest actions and practices that can help us regain harmony. It is a call for action and a sharing of ideas that can enable us to regain balance and fulfil our human responsibilities.

The Music and Sound of Experimental Film Holly Rogers, Jeremy Barham, 2017-06-29. This book explores music-sound-image relationships in non-mainstream screen repertoire from the earliest examples of experimental audiovisuality to the most recent forms of expanded and digital technology. It challenges presumptions of visual primacy in experimental cinema and rethinks screen music discourse in light of the aesthetics of non-commercial imperatives. Several themes run through the book, connecting with and significantly enlarging upon current critical discourse surrounding realism and audibility in the fiction film, the role of music in mainstream cinema, and the audiovisual strategies of experimental film. The contributors investigate repertoires and artists from Europe and the USA through the critical lenses of synchronicity and animated sound, interrelations of experimentation in image and sound, audiovisual synchresis and dissonance, experimental soundscape traditions, found footage, film re-mediation of pre-existent music and sound, popular and queer sound cultures, and a diversity of radical technological aesthetic tropes in film media, traversing the work of early pioneers such as Walther Ruttmann and Len Lye through the mid-century innovations of Norman McLaren, Stan Brakhage, Lis Rhodes, Kenneth Anger, Andy Warhol, and studio collectives in Poland to latter-day experimentalists John Smith and Bill Morrison, as well as the contemporary practices of Vjing.
