literature of the twentieth century A Cultural Citizen of the World Siegbert Salomon Prawer, 2009 Based on an intensive study of the original German text of Freud's writings, letters and journals, S. S. Prawer's new book is the first to make a full and systematic map of Freud's use of English literature. The great psychoanalyst has long been acclaimed as a polymath, as a practical doctor who was also a theoretician, as a writer of non-fiction which was also a counterpoint to the great novels of the early twentieth century, and as an essayist who like Montaigne absorbed all of the cultural world around him. Freud was fascinated by writings from many nations and languages, and his use of English shows the great range of his reading, from Shakespeare to Bernard Shaw, Henry Fielding to George Eliot, Mark Twain to Thornton Wilder, from scientific works by Maxwell and Darwin to the economics of Adam Smith, Malthus and Keynes, and from psychology and anthropology to the origins of religion. Though Freud's genius was unique, his sense of being a citizen of a world far wider than Vienna was not, and it can tell us much about the exchange of ideas across national and linguistic frontiers. Though he was a reader par excellence, he was also a case study in how world literature can be used by men and women who are not professional literary scholars or critics, and of how much it can come to mean to them and for their sense of who they are. Discovering Françoise Dolto Kathleen Saint-Onge, 2019-05-22 This psychobiographical study of the renowned French pediatrician and psychoanalyst Françoise Dolto introduces both her theories of child development and her unique insights into language and identity. A friend of Jacques Lacan's, Dolto believed that we are all humanized through language and that the words we use carry unconscious traces of our early histories of love, suffering, and desire. Suggesting that infants unconsciously symbolize and that a continuous circulation of unconscious affects the transference, she prevails in all language-based relations. Her findings challenge assumptions about autism, autobiography, linguistics, literacy, pedagogy, and therapy. Dolto's own corpus, a rich archive blending the personal and professional, demonstrates this with echoes between Dolto's constructs about the child and her own challenging childhood. This fascinating book will not only introduce the work of Françoise Dolto to many readers but will be a valuable resource for all psychoanalytic researchers and theorists interested in childhood language and identity.
