A Grammar of Gurung Kristine A. Hildebrandt,2025-09-22 This grammar is a detailed description of Gurung a Tibeto Burman language spoken in parts of Nepal India and Bhutan and by diaspora communities in Southeast Asia and beyond Although Gurung is a Bodish language of the Tibeto Burman family the speakers have been in intense and long term contact with Nepali and so the grammar and lexicon demonstrate interesting aspects of contact induced language change This grammar focuses on the variety of Gurung spoken in Manang District Nepal but it includes detailed comparison with available data on other varieties spoken in other regions of Nepal and in India The description is based on primary data collected during fieldwork conducted between 2004 and 2017 including both natural and elicited data Of particular interest in this description is the register based tone system which diverges from descriptions of tone for other related languages spoken in the region Also of interest in this language is the phenomenon of differential case marking The grammar provides new analyses and insights that are relevant to our understanding of the synchronic typology and areal relationships and also the diachronic changes within the western Tibeto Burman region

Spacious Minds Sara E. Lewis, 2020-02-15 Spacious Minds argues that resilience is not a mere absence of suffering Sara E Lewis's research reveals how those who cope most gracefully may indeed experience deep pain and loss Looking at the Tibetan diaspora she challenges perspectives that liken resilience to the hardness of physical materials suggesting people should bounce back from adversity More broadly this ethnography calls into question the tendency to use trauma as an organizing principle for all studies of conflict where suffering is understood as an individual problem rooted in psychiatric illness Beyond simply articulating the ways that Tibetan categories of distress are different from biomedical ones Spacious Minds shows how Tibetan Buddhism frames new possibilities for understanding resilience Here the social and religious landscape encourages those exposed to violence to see past events as impermanent and illusory where debriefing working through or processing past events only solidifies suffering and may even cause illness Resilience in Dharamsala is understood as sems pa chen po a vast and spacious mind that does not fixate on individual problems but rather uses suffering as an opportunity to generate compassion for others in the endless cycle of samsara A big mind view helps to see suffering in life as ordinary And yet an intriguing paradox occurs As Lewis deftly demonstrates Tibetans in exile have learned that human rights campaigns are predicated on the creation and circulation of the trauma narrative in this way Tibetan activists utilize foreign trauma discourse not for psychological healing but as a political device and act of agency

Ritual, Heritage and Identity Christiane Brosius, Karin M. Polit, 2020-11-29 This book explores the importance of ritual and ritual theory to discourses of authenticity and originality thereby deepening our insight into concepts of cultural heritage identity and nation in a globalised world The volume is the first interdisciplinary attempt to understand the significance of rituals and related performative traditions in the creation of grounded cultural identities home and heritage as geographically experienceable locations It assembles perspectives from social and cultural anthropology performance studies education and arts that can deal with the politics of revitalisation and preservation of ritualised traditions While some chapters in this book emphasise on the ritualisation of cultural heritage by concentrating on power relations and politics as well as actual processes of identification especially for marginalised ethnic groups or migrant communities others explore how rituals as intangible heritage are strategically employed by different groups all over the world to make their claims public and to improve and negotiate their position on a local national or global platform This book recognises ritualised performances as transnational and cross cultural phenomena which are not only tied to and defined via national territories and identities but which also demand new theoretical and methodological approaches towards the discussion of rituals and heritage

Women, Religion and the Body in South Asia Kristin Hanssen, 2018-04-19 Noted for their haunting melodies and enigmatic lyrics Bauls have been portrayed as spiritually enlightened troubadours traveling around the countryside in West Bengal in India and in Bangladesh As emblems of Bengali culture Bauls have long been a subject of scholarly debates which center on their esoteric practices and middle class imaginaries of the category Baul Adding to this literature the intimate ethnography presented in this book recounts the life stories of members from a single family shining light on their past and present tribulations bound up with being poor and of a lowly caste It shows that taking up the Baul path is a means of softening the stigma of their lower caste identity in that religious practice where women play a key role renders the body pure The path is also a source of monetary income in that begging is considered part of their vocation For women the Baul path has the added implication of lessening constraints of gender While the book describes a family of singers it also portrays the wider society in which they live showing how their lives connect and interlace with other villagers a theme not previously explored in literature on Bauls A novel approach to the study of women the body and religion this book will be of interest to undergraduates and graduates in the field of the anthropology In addition it will appeal to students of everyday religious lives as experienced by the poor through case studies in South Asia The book provides further evidence that renunciation in South Asia is not a uniform path despite claims to the contrary There is also a special interest in Bauls among those familiar with the Bengali speaking region While this book speaks to that interest its wider appeal lies in the light it sheds on religion the body life histories and poverty Rebuilding Buddhism Sarah LeVine, David N.

Gellner, 2007-09-30 Rebuilding Buddhism describes in evocative detail the experiences and achievements of Nepalis who have adopted Theravada Buddhism This form of Buddhism was introduced into Nepal from Burma and Sri Lanka in the 1930s and its adherents have struggled for recognition and acceptance ever since With its focus on the austere figure of the monk and the biography of the historical Buddha and more recently with its emphasis on individualizing meditation and on gender equality Theravada Buddhism contrasts sharply with the highly ritualized Tantric Buddhism traditionally practiced in the Kathmandu Valley Based on extensive fieldwork interviews and historical reconstruction the book provides a rich portrait of the different ways of being a Nepali Buddhist over the past seventy years At the same time it explores the impact of the Theravada movement and what its gradual success has meant for Buddhism for society and for men and women in Nepal
