The Greco-Egyptian Magical Formularies

Christopher Faraone, Sofia Torallas Tovar, 2022-11-14 In Greco Roman Egypt recipes for magical undertaking called magical formularies commonly existed for love potions curses attempts to best business rivals many of the same challenges that modern people might face In The Greco Egyptian Magical Formularies Libraries Books and Individual Recipes volume editors Christopher Faraone and Sofia Torallas Tovar present a series of essays by scholars involved in a multiyear project to reedit and translate the various magical handbooks that were inscribed in the Roman period in the Greek or Egyptian languages For the first time the material remains of these papyrus rolls and codices are closely examined revealing important information about the production of books in Egypt the scribal culture in which they were produced and the traffic in single recipes copied from them Especially important for historians of the book and the Christian Bible are new insights in the historical shift from roll to codex complicated methods of inscribing the bilingual papyri in which the Greek script is written left to right and the demotic script right to left and the new realization that several of the longest extant handbooks are clearly compilations of two or more shorter handbooks which may have come from different places The essays also reexamine and rethink the idea that these handbooks came from the personal libraries of practicing magicians or temple scriptoria in one case going so far as to suggest that two of the handbooks had literary pretensions of a sort and were designed to be read for pleasure rather than for quotidian use in making magical recipes

Egyptian Magic

Sir Ernest Alfred Thompson Wallis Budge, 2020-09-28 Egyptian magic dates from the time when the predynastic and prehistoric dwellers in Egypt believed that the earth and the underworld and the air and the sky were peopled with countless beings visible and invisible which were held to be friendly or unfriendly to man according as the operations of nature which they were supposed to direct were favourable or unfavourable to him In nature and attributes these beings were thought by primitive man to closely resemble himself and to possess all human passions and emotions and weaknesses and defects and the chief object of magic was to give man the pre eminence over such beings The favour of the beings who were placable and friendly to man might be obtained by means of gifts and offerings but the cessation of hostilities on the part of those that were implacable and unfriendly could only be obtained by wheedling and cajolery and flattery or by making use of an amulet or secret name or magical formula or figure or picture which had the effect of bringing to the aid of the mortal who possessed it the power of a being that was mightier than the foe who threatened to do evil to him The magic of most early nations aimed at causing the transference of power from a supernatural being to man whereby he was to be enabled to obtain superhuman results and to become for a time as mighty as the original possessor of the power but the object of Egyptian magic was to endow man with the means of compelling both friendly and hostile powers nay at a later time even God Himself to do what he wished whether they were willing or not The belief in magic the word being used in its best sense is older in Egypt than the belief in God and it is certain that a very large number of the Egyptian religious ceremonies which were performed in later times as an integral part of a highly spiritual worship had their origin in superstitious customs which date from a period when God under any name or in any form was unconceived in the minds of the Egyptians Indeed it is probable that even the use of the sign which represents an axe and which stands the hieroglyphic character both for God and god indicates that this weapon and tool was employed in the performance of some ceremony connected with religious magic in prehistoric or at any rate in predynastic times when it in some mysterious way symbolized the presence of a supreme Power But be this as it may it is quite certain that magic and religion developed and flourished side by side in Egypt throughout all periods of her history and that any investigation which we may make of the one necessarily includes an examination of the other
