Sharing Authority in the Museum Michelle Horwood, 2018-11-06 Sharing Authority in the Museum provides a detailed and fully contextualised study of a heritage assemblage over time from the mid nineteenth century to the present day Focussing on M ori objects predominantly originating from the Ng Paerangi tribe housed in Oxford s Pitt Rivers Museum the book examines the nuances of cross cultural interactions between an indigenous community and an anthropological museum Analysis centres on the legacy of historic ethnographic collecting on indigenous communities and museums and the impact of different value systems and world views on access to heritage objects Questions of curatorial responsibilities and authority over access rights are explored Proposing a method for indigenous engagement to address this legacy and making recommendations to guide participants when forging relationships based around indigenous cultural heritage Michelle Horwood shows how to negotiate power and authority within these assemblages She argues that by doing this and acknowledging and communicating our difficult histories together we can move from collaborative approaches to shared authority and indigenous self determination progressing the task of decolonising the museum Addressing a salient complex issue by way of a grounded case study Sharing Authority in the Museum is key reading for museum practitioners working with ethnographic collections as well as scholars and students working in the fields of museum heritage Indigenous or cultural studies It should also be of great interest to indigenous communities wishing to take the lessons learned from Ng

Paerangi's experiences further within their own spheres of museum engagement Political Science, 2010 Ki Te Whaiao Tania Ka'ai, 2004 Ki te Whaiao An Introduction to M ori Culture and Society is intended for students of M ori studies at tertiary institutions. It is also aimed at several other audiences: those M ori who want to know more about their own world; P keh living in this country; and people from overseas who want to learn about the history of the Indigenous people of Aotearoa New Zealand. The book describes traditional and contemporary M ori society and its interaction with P keh society since first contact. It gives expression to the voices and words of M ori scholars and those informed by their world view. Emphasis has been placed on the clarification of M ori cultural concepts throughout in order to give readers a deeper understanding of the M ori world and to excite their interest in the key themes developed throughout the text. The book has been arranged in two parts. Part one is called Te Ao M ori The M ori World and examines a series of topics encompassing tribal histories, about the creation, important cultural concepts, the migration journeys to Aotearoa, the origins of the M ori language, cultural traditions and practices, leadership, and M ori performing and fine arts. Part two Ng Ao e Rua The Two Worlds examines early contact between M ori and P keh, the Treaty and related issues, religion, sovereignty, education, and literature, and ends with a chapter on the Pacific peoples in Aotearoa New Zealand. Museums and the Making of "ourselves" Flora E. S. Kaplan, Flora S. Kaplan, 1994. This volume chronicles the ways in which museum collections have played important roles in creating national identity and in promoting national agendas. The Journal of Commonwealth Literature, 1988. Musées et restitutions, 2021-01-14. De qui les cultures et leurs objets? Elles sont elles la propriété? La réponse n'est pas simplement économique, juridique ou muséographique; elle engage l'histoire humaine. Ce volume aborde les débats contemporains sur la question des restitutions d'œuvres d'art et d'objets de culture et sur la notion de musée comme gage d'écologie: c'est-à-dire de conservation des patrimoines. Il ne concerne pas seulement les relations entre l'Afrique et la France, mais l'ensemble des cultures mondiales. On y trouve ainsi un témoignage sur la restitution d'un bien hopi, on y voyage de la Nouvelle Zélande aux Amériques en passant par le Cameroun, le Sénégal, le Bénin, le musée du quai Branly, la Normandie et l'île de Pâques. Magnificent TE MAORI Hirini Moko Mead, 1986. Magnificent Te Maori Hirini Moko Mead, Sidney M. Mead, 1986. Maori Oral Tradition Jane McRae, 2017-03-20. Maori oral tradition is the rich poetic record of the past handed down by voice over generations through whakapapa, whakatauki, korero and waiata. In genealogies and sayings, histories, stories and songs, Maori tell of te ao tawhito, or the old world: the gods, the migration of the Polynesian ancestors from Hawaiki and life here in Aotearoa. A voice from the past, today, this remarkable record underpins the speeches, songs and prayers performed on marae and the teaching of tribal genealogies and histories. Indeed, the oral tradition underpins Maori culture itself. This book introduces readers to the distinctive oral style and language of the traditional compositions, acknowledges the skills of the composers of old, and explores the meaning of their striking imagery and figurative language. And it shows how nga korero, tuku iho, the inherited words, can be a deep well of knowledge about the way of life wisdom and thinking of the Maori ancestors
