Childhood and Schooling in (Post)Socialist Societies Iveta Silova,Nelli Piattoeva,Zsuzsa Millei,2017-12-07 This book explores childhood and schooling in late socialist societies by bringing into dialogue public narratives and personal memories that move beyond imaginaries of Cold War divisions between the East and West Written by cultural insiders who were brought up and educated on the eastern side of the Iron Curtain spanning from Central Europe to mainland Asia the book offers insights into the diverse spaces of socialist childhoods interweaving with broader political economic and social life. These evocative memories explore the experiences of children in navigating state expectations to embody model socialist citizens and their mixed feelings of attachment, optimism, dullness and alienation associated with participation in building socialist futures. Drawing on the research traditions of autobiography, autoethnography and collective biography, the authors challenge what is often considered normal and natural in the historical accounts of socialist childhoods and engage in re-writing histories that open space for new knowledges and vast webs of interconnections to emerge. This book will be compelling reading for students and researchers working in education, sociology and history, particularly those within the interdisciplinary fields of childhood and area studies. The authors of this beautiful book are professional academics and intellectuals who grew up in different socialist countries. Exploring socialist childhoods in myriad ways, they draw on memories and collective history, emotional insider knowledge and the measured perspective of an analyst. What emerges is life that was caught between real optimism and dullness, ethical commitments and ideological absurdities, selfless devotion to children and their treatment as a political resource. Such attention to detail and examination of the paradoxical nature of this time makes this collective effort not only timely but remarkably genuine. Alexei Yurchak, University of California, USA.

Contemporary Women's Movements in Hungary Katalin Fábián, 2009-10-14. As the first and only book in any language on contemporary women's movements in Hungary, this groundbreaking study focuses on the role of women's activism in a society where women are not yet adequately represented by established parties and political institutions. Drawing on eyewitness accounts of meetings and protests as well as first person interviews with leading female activists, Katalin Fábián examines the interactions between women's groups in Hungary and studies the unique brand of democracy they have forged in postcommunist Eastern Europe. Through her analysis, she demonstrates how democratization and globalization, with their attendant range of challenges and opportunities, have led women to redefine public-private divides.

Women in the Face of Change Annie Phizacklea, Hilary Pilkington, Shirin Rai, 2013-10-08. The years 1989 and 1990 will probably be best remembered for the speed and breadth of political and economic change which swept through what used to be referred to as the Communist Bloc. With the disintegration of this bloc, there has been no shortage of western advice on how to democratize economy and politics in these societies. However, little thought has been given to what this change means for the millions of women who have toiled for decades alongside men in the factories and fields as well as performing their womanly mission in the home. This collection from women in Eastern and Western Europe, and covering both Europe and China poses many questions about the impact of change It contributes to the debate that seeks to combat inertia and ethnocentrism within western feminism and also to the separate and the critical women s voice which is re emerging in the Soviet Union Eastern Europe and China A History of Central European Women's Writing C.

demonstrating the range and intellectual strength of existing integrative work in geography research This handbook is the first of its kind to cover this emerging discipline and will be of significant interest to students and academics across the fields of geography the environment and sustainability Women in Hungarian Politics, 1945-1951 Andrea Pető,2003 Based on extensive primary source material and oral history interviews this book is the first comprehensive study of Hungarian women s political involvement in post World War II Hungary It addresses the impact of the spread of communism and describes how some key organizations gradually ceased to exist and were replaced by a single communist dominated women s organization The book includes a case study of women who entered the police force a profession previously closed to them

Women and Citizenship in Central and Eastern Europe Joanna Regulska,2017-03-02 The transformations seen in women s active citizenship in Central and Eastern Europe mirror the social political and economic transformations in the region since the fall of communism at the end of the 1980s This book challenges the universal notion of citizenship by focusing on the diversity of situations women in this region have found themselves in since the end of the 1980s looking at the challenges and struggles they have faced to assert themselves as citizens and their citizenship rights Featuring detailed case studies which demonstrate the social and political discrimination between women that still exists the book will be of interest to academics and post graduate students in women s gender studies political sociology and European studies

Gender and Identity in Central and Eastern Europe Chri Corrin,2014-02-04 This collection highlights changes in Central and Eastern Europe since 1989 from the perspectives of gender and identity Resistance to the negative consequences of certain changes demonstrate that women s activities have played a large part in democratic developments in various countries Women & Gender in Central and Eastern Europe, Russia, and Eurasia: Southeastern and East Central Europe

Feminisms looks at feminism as a vital source of new knowledge and new ways of working throughout a range of disciplines It also scrutinizes the sometimes highly problematic forms its presence within academia can take The contributors all well known feminist academics discuss the epistemological and ontological borderlands that feminisms inhabit which although within still remain other to the academy The book addresses fundamentally important questions such as Should feminists work within traditional disciplines or abandon them in favour of Women s Studies Is the idea of feminist pedagogy as empowerment actually one which de skills Does the feminist transformation of some academic disciplines signify that these are no longer significant sites of knowledge and or power Do the essential organizational features of disciplines and institutions depend upon repressive means or is it possible to transform these according to feminist principles Are some disciplines and types of institutions particularly resistant to feminist ideas Is an intellectual home for feminism ever possible or desirable within academia or is critical thinking best done from the margins Can Women s Studies as an organizational presence within the university encompass dissenting positions on these foundational questions or will it contain and control what can be said and by whom
