Nature by Design Eric Higgs, 2003-04-25 Ecological restoration is the process of repairing human damage to ecosystems It involves reintroducing missing plants and animals rebuilding soils eliminating hazardous substances ripping up roads and returning natural processes such as fire and flooding to places that thrive on their regular occurrence Thousands of restoration projects take place in North America every year In Nature by Design Eric Higgs argues that profound philosophical and cultural shifts accompany these projects He explores the ethical and philosophical bases of restoration and the question of what constitutes good ecological restoration Higgs explains how and why the restoration movement came about where it fits into the array of approaches to human relationships with the land and how it might be used to secure a sustainable future Some environmental philosophers and activists worry that restoration will dilute preservation and conservation efforts and lead to an even deeper technological attitude toward nature They ask whether even well conceived restoration projects are in fact just expressions of human will Higgs prefaces his responses to such concerns by distinguishing among several types of ecological restoration He also describes a growing gulf between professionals and amateurs Higgs finds much merit in criticism about technological restoration projects which can cause more damage than they undo These projects often ignore the fact that changing one thing in a complex system can change the whole system For restoration projects to be successful Higgs argues people at the community level must be engaged These focal restorations bring communities together helping volunteers develop a dedication to place and encouraging democracy Flower Guide for Holiday Weekends in Eastern Canada and Northeastern U.S.A. Ellen Wynne Larsen, Betty Ida Roots, National Research Council Canada, 2005 A companion for visitors to the countryside on long holiday weekends who are intrigued by the flowers they see but find field guides formidable The Canadian Patent Office Record and Register of Copyrights and Trade Marks, 1925 Seasons, 2002 The Sierra Club Guide to Close-up Photography in Nature Tim Fitzharris, 1997 Provides information on how to photograph plants and animals by existing light in their natural environments discussing terms and tools field techniques and artistic approaches and includes a selection of color photographs of creatures in the wild Literature of Nature Patrick D.
