Etymologically, the term biocentrism is traceable to two Greek words, βίος (pronounced 'bio' meaning 'life') and κέντρον, (pronounced 'kentron' meaning 'centre'). Put together, both terms form the English 'biocentrism' which connotes a 'life-centred' environmentalism (Mouchang and Lei 423). Biocentrism, in the light of the above amounts to moral extensionism; that is, an extension of moral worth from humans to non-human animals and plants.

Pragmatism

There are many ideas about the meaning of pragmatism; in a general sense, the term refers to any "straightforward or practical way of thinking about things or dealing with problems, [to be] concerned with results rather than with theories and principles" (Encarta Dictionary n.p.). Philosophically, the term pragmatism represents a philosophical tradition which (is quite traceable to antiquity but) manifested most strongly in the 1870s America through the pioneering work of Charles Sanders Pierce (1839-1914) and his followers William James (1842-1910) and John Dewey (1859-1952) (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy n.p.).

According to James, pragmatism rejects the notion that the function of human thinking is to describe, represent, or mirror reality (n.p.). Rather, pragmatists view thought as an instrument or tool for prediction, problem solving and action. They contend that most philosophical topics (such as the nature of knowledge, language, concepts, meaning, belief, and science) should be considered more in terms of their practical uses and successes. The philosophy of pragmatism "emphasizes the practical application of ideas by acting on them to actually test them in human experiences" (Gutsek 76-100). Also the Encarta Dictionary reports that is a philosophical method of evaluating theories which holds, "a theory or concept should be evaluated in terms of how it works and its consequences as the standard for action and thought" (n.p.). Within this paper, the pragmatic method of is understood and applied in this sense; thus it is the practical applicability of Taylor's biocentrism that has been subjected to the court of reason.

Paul Taylor's Biocentric Egalitarianism

Paul Warren Taylor was born in Philadelphia on 19th November 1923. He is specialized in normative and applied ethics, and is best known for his work in environmental ethics. He is emeritus professor of philosophy at Brooklyn College, City University of New York; where he studied normative and applied ethics ("Paul Taylor" web). He has authored several articles, essays and books. Among his most popular books are, Normative Discourse (1961), Principles of Ethics (1975), and Respect for Nature: A Theory of Environmental Ethics (1986). He has also edited two books of readings:- The Moral Judgement: Readings in Contemporary Meta-Ethics (1963); and Problems of Moral Philosophy, 3rd Ed. (1971). Oakley acknowledges that Taylor is a renowned Kantian scholar (207). Taylor's biocentric egalitarianism is taught in many university courses on environmental ethics today.

An examination of his theory shows various links to other philosophers who may have influenced his biocentric thought; key among which is Immanuel Kant (via the principle

There is no way of even approaching let alone resolving the philosophical issue of realism without drawing due attention to the ways in which human values are inextricably entangled with even the most purely factual projects of inquiry we engage in. This entanglement of the factual and the normative is as explicitly argued in Chapter 7 but implicitly suggested in all the other chapters as well both pragmatic practice embedded and practice involving and transcendental operating at the level of the necessary conditions for the possibility of our representing and cognizing the world in general. The author claims we need to carefully examine the complex relations of realism value and transcendental arguments at the intersection of pragmatism and analytic philosophy. This book does so by offering case studies of various important neopragmatists and philosophers close to the pragmatist tradition including Hilary Putnam, Nicholas Rescher, Joseph Margolis, and Ludwig Wittgenstein. It appeals to scholars and advanced graduate students focusing on pragmatism and analytic philosophy.

Substantive Perspectivism: An Essay on Philosophical Concern with Truth Bo Mou, 2009-09-16 I have been thinking about the philosophical issue of truth for more than two decades. It is one of several fascinating philosophical issues that motivated me to change my primary reflective interest to philosophy after receiving BS in mathematics in 1982. Some serious academic work in this connection started around the late eighties when I translated into Chinese a dozen of Donald Davidson's representative essays on truth and meaning and when I assumed translator for Adam Morton who gave a series of lectures on the issue in Beijing 1988 which was co-sponsored by my then institution Institute of Philosophy Chinese Academy of Social Science. I have loved the issue both for its own sake as one specific major issue in the philosophy of language and metaphysics and for the sake of its significant involvement in many philosophical issues in different subjects of philosophy. Having been attracted to the analytic approach I was then interested in looking at the issue both from the points of view of classical Chinese philosophy and Marxist philosophy two major styles or frameworks of doing philosophy during that time in China and from the point of view of contemporary analytic philosophy which was then less recognized in the Chinese philosophical circle.

Subject Catalog Library of Congress,      Duties Regarding Nature Toby Svoboda, 2015-06-26 In this book Toby Svoboda develops and defends a Kantian environmental virtue ethic challenging the widely held view that Kant's moral philosophy has little to offer environmental ethics. On the contrary Svoboda contends that on Kantian grounds there is good moral reason to care about non-human organisms in their own right and to value their flourishing independently of human interests since doing so is constitutive of certain environmental virtues. Svoboda argues that Kant's account of indirect duties regarding nature can ground a compelling environmental ethic: the Kantian duty to develop morally virtuous dispositions strictly proscribes unnecessarily harming organisms and it also gives us moral reason to act in ways that benefit such organisms Svoboda's account engages the recent literature on environmental virtue including Rosalind Hursthouse Philip Cafaro Ronald Sandler Thomas Hill and Louke van Wensveen and provides an original argument for an environmental ethic firmly rooted in Kant's moral philosophy      Post-Materialist Religion Mika T. Lassander, 2014-08-28 Post Materialist Religion discusses the transformations of the individual's worldview in contemporary modern societies and the role general societal value change plays in these In doing so Mika Lassander brings into conversation sociological theories of secularisation and social psychological theories of interpersonal relations the development of morality and the nature of basic human values The long term decline of traditional religiosity in Europe and the emerging ethos that can be described as post secular have brought religion and values back into popular discussion One important theme in these discussions is about the links between religion and values with the most common assumption being that religions are the source of individuals values This book argues for the opposite view suggesting that religions or people's worldviews in general reflect the individual's priorities Mika Lassander argues that the transformation of the individual's worldview is a direct consequence of the social and economical changes in European societies since the Second World War He suggests that the decline of traditional religiosity is not an indication of linear secularisation or of forgetting traditions but an indication of the loss of relevance of some aspects of the traditional institutional religions Furthermore he argues that this is not an indication of the loss of ethical value base but rather a change in the value base and consequently the transformation of the legitimating framework of this value base      Natural Philosophy Paul Thagard, 2019 Volume 3 Natural philosophy from social brains to knowledge reality morality and beauty      Kant, Science, and Human Nature Robert Hanna, 2006-10-19 Robert Hanna argues for the importance of Kant's theories of the epistemological metaphysical and practical foundations of the exact sciences relegated to the dustbin of the history of philosophy for most of the 20th century Hanna's earlier book Kant and the Foundations of Analytic Philosophy OUP 2001 explores basic conceptual and historical connections between Immanuel Kant's 18th century Critical Philosophy and the tradition of mainstream analytic philosophy from Frege to Quine The central topics of the analytic tradition in its early and middle periods were meaning and necessity But the central theme of mainstream analytic philosophy after 1950 is scientific naturalism which holds to use Wilfrid Sellars's apt phrase that science is the measure of all things This type of naturalism is explicitly reductive Kant Science and Human Nature has two aims one negative and one positive Its negative aim is to develop a Kantian critique of scientific naturalism But its positive and more fundamental aim is to work out the elements of a humane realistic and nonreductive Kantian account of the foundations of the exact sciences According to this account the essential properties of the natural world are directly knowable through human sense perception empirical realism and practical reason is both explanatorily and ontologically prior to theoretical reason the primacy of the practical      Green Politics Dustin Mulvaney, 2011-06-28 Colorful bracelets funky brooches and beautiful handmade beads young crafters learn to make all these and much more with this
