Public Administration Select Committee, 2008 This report considers the case for Parliament to be able to initiate and conduct inquiries into serious and significant matters of public concern It takes up the recommendation made by this committee's predecessor Committee in the Government by Inquiry Report that there should be a parliamentary mechanism for initiating inquiries These would take the form of Parliamentary Commissions of Inquiry composed of parliamentarians and others In the Report the committee examines the justification for creating Parliamentary Commissions of Inquiry in particular that they would enable Parliament to hold the Executive to account more effectively Then it covers some of the practical issues involved in setting up inquiries of this nature how Parliament could instigate an inquiry its composition and its operation and powers The committee concludes that it is crucial in constitutional sense that Parliament has the necessary powers and abilities to scrutinise the Executive and hold it to account Proper parliamentary scrutiny should include the ability to establish and undertake inquiries into significant matters of public concern Parliament has in the past conducted investigations of this kind and as the great forum of the nation should be expected to do so The committee's recommendation for Parliamentary Commissions of Inquiry would promote effective parliamentary accountability by creating a process for Parliament to initiate inquiries where it rather than the Executive sees fit Cobbett's Parliamentary Debates Great Britain.
