Perilous Promises:

Perilous Promises Jean Rossetta, 1988 The Celluloid Atlantic Saverio Giovacchini, 2025-02-01 Offers a fresh look at American and Italian cinema in the postwar period The Celluloid Atlantic changes the way we look at American and Italian cinema in the postwar period In the thirty years following World War II American and Italian film industries came to be an integrated transnational unit rather than two separate nation based entities Written in jargon free prose and based on previously unexplored archival sources this book revisits the history of Neorealism World War II combat cinema the Western all Italiana and the career of John Kitzmiller the African American star who made Italy his home and was the first person of color to win the Best Actor Award at the Cannes Film Festival The Celluloid Atlantic makes the trailblazing argument that culturally hybrid genres like the so called spagnetti Western were less the exceptions than the norm Giovacchini argues that the waning of the Celluloid Atlantic in the early 1970s was due to the economic policies of the first Nixon administration specifically its important but largely neglected Revenue Act of 1971 as well as to the ideological debates between Europeans and Americans that intensified during the American intervention in Vietnam A history of my time: memoirs, ed. by the duc d'Audiffret-Pasquier. Tr. by C.E. Roche duc Étienne Denis Pasquier, 1894 Care of the Soul; Or, Sermons Upon Some Points of Christian Prudence William Edward Heygate, 1851 Grave Attending Karen Bray, 2019-12-03 A thorough critique of the redemptive narratives of neoliberalism in US politics and society This is a book about what it would mean to be a bit moody in the midst of being theological and political Its framing assumption is that neoliberal economics relies on narratives in which not being in the right mood means a cursed existence So begins Grave Attending A Political Theology for the Unredeemed which mounts a challenge to neoliberal narratives of redemption Mapping the contemporary state of political theology Karen Bray brings it to bear upon secularism Marxist thought affect theory queer temporality and other critical modes as a way to refuse separating one s personal mood from the political or philosophical Introducing the concept of bipolar time she offers a critique of neoliberal temporality by countering capitalist priorities of efficiency through the experiences of mania and depression And it is here Bray makes her crucial critical turn one that values the power of those who are unredeemed in the eyes of liberal democracy those too slow too mad too depressed to be of productive worth suggesting forms of utopia in the poetics of crip theory and ordinary habit Through performances of what she calls grave attending being brought down by the gravity of what is and listening to the ghosts of what might have been Bray asks readers to choose collective care over individual overcoming Grave Attending brings critical questions of embodiment history and power to the fields of political theology radical theology secular theology and the continental philosophy of religion Scholars interested in addressing the lack of intersectional engagement within these fields will find this work invaluable As the forces of neoliberalism demand we be productive efficient happy and flexible in order to be deemed worthy subjects Grave Attending offers another model for living politically emotionally and theologically Instead of submitting to such a market driven concept of salvation this book insists that we remain mad moody and unredeemed Drawing on theories of affect temporality disability queerness work and race Bray persuades us that embodying more just forms of sociality comes not in spite of irredeemable moods but through them In Grave Attending Bray forges a bold and yet surprisingly gentle theological response to the driving economies of salvation that flow through the bloodstream of US politics and American Christianity Immersed in multiple scholarly discourses Bray manages to expose the significance of theology amongst these as her theological vision insists on countering the pathologizing forces that either numb us or compel us to rise above suffering She catches readers off guard by crafting a lyrical work of theology that claims moods and modes of reflection that are often deemed unsuitable and unworthy Bray's theology claims the damned and damns the redemptive Shelly Rambo Boston The Rising Sea Orrin H. Pilkey, Rob Young, 2010-04-16 While rising seas are now inevitable we are far from helpless By making hard choices including uprooting citizens changing where and how we build and developing a coordinated national response we can save property and ultimately lives With unassailable research and practical insights The Rising Sea is a critical first step in understanding the threat and keeping our heads above water Worlds Kids' Stories Book Ayokunle Mathew Akinbi, 2025-07-07 Ten year old Elara's world is one of familiar comforts the taste of wild strawberries the scent of rain on dry earth and the secret rustling room inside the ancient willow tree in her garden But when a mysterious musical whisper leads her to a hidden knot on the trunk she discovers a shimmering doorway to a world she never knew existed Beyond the portal lies Lumina a land bathed in the light of two suns with silver barked trees glowing moss and streams that fizz on the tongue Here she meets Lyren a boy with dragonfly wings and starlight in his eyes who becomes her guide and friend in this magical realm But Elara is more than just a visitor she is a bridge between the two worlds and her presence begins to thin the veil that separates them As the colors sounds and scents of their homes begin to bleed into one another a terrifying shadow emerges the Un thing a void that consumes all light and life To save everything she loves Elara along with Lyren and a band of unlikely friends must embark on a perilous quest to rebalance the worlds before the encroaching darkness devours them both It is a journey that will test her courage and force her to discover that the greatest magic lies not in choosing a home but in embracing the harmony of being a child of two worlds Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Government Operations United States.
