Reorienting Health Services:

Reorienting Health Services Charles O. Pannenburg, 2012-12-06 The Advanced Research Institute on Health Services Systems was held under the auspices of the NATO Special Programme Panel on Systems Science as a part of the NATO Science Committee's continuous effort to promote the advancement of science through international cooperation. A special word is said in this respect supra by Professor Checkland Chairman of the Systems Science Panel. The Advanced Research Institute ARI was organized for the purpose of bringing together senior scientists to seek a consensus on the assessment of the present state of knowledge on the specific topic of health services systems and to present views and recommendations for future health services research directions which should be of value to both the scientific community and the people in charge of reorienting health services. The conference was structured so as to permit the assembly of a variety of complementary viewpoints through intensive group discussions to be the basis of this final report. Invitees were selected from all over Europe and North America including observers from the major international organizations involved in health services research to provide the experience and expertise necessary to make the issue of health services systems valid and significant.

Health Promotion and Health Services Anne Johnson, Kevin Paton, 2007 Health Promotion and Health Services Management for Change provides an innovative new framework for reorientating health services to become more health promoting. Pressure on health services to become more responsive to the health needs of the broader population has led to greater demand for effective change management within the health sector. The authors integrate health promotion and change management theory into a framework designed to reorient health services to become more health promoting and then link this knowledge to practical tools to effect change. Reorienting Health Services : from Rhetoric to Reality Joy L.
