Paradigm Shift in Reproductive Health in Bangladesh Tehmina Ghafur, 2017-08-21 The reproductive health care program of Bangladesh is still striving to address the very basic reproductive health issues of its people Reproductive health services here still confronting issues surrounding availability Equality issues like accessibility to and quality of services are far away from the reach of the majority of people This book analyses the policy discourses and the paradigm shift relating to reproductive health care in Bangladesh It explores the extent to which the policy frameworks reflect a paradigm shift towards a rights based reproductive health program In so doing it also investigates how the complementarities and inconsistencies within the policy frameworks have affected reproductive health through the availability of accessibility to and quality of reproductive health services in Bangladesh Regulation of the Pharmaceutical Industry J. Abraham, H. Lawton Smith, 2003-06-10 How are pharmaceutical technologies developed and controlled in our societies To what extent should the availability of these technologies be determined by scientific experts a democratic state the interests of final users or ethical principles This unique collection brings together the work of social scientists ethicists lawyers and policy analysts on regulation ethics and innovation in the pharmaceutical industry Regulatory systems and their implications for public health in North America Europe and developing countries are discussed including case studies of norplant interferon and anti fertility vaccines Reproductive Rights in Practice Anita Hardon, Elizabeth Hayes, 1997 Part 2 Country case studies quality of care Gender, Development and Health Caroline Sweetman, 2001 Articles included here focus on understandings of reproductive health integrating gender issues into infectious disease prevention the impact of HIV AIDS on women working with communities to promote health and on the monitoring and evaluation of health projects from a gender perspective Health Policy in a Globalising World Kelley Lee, Kent Buse, Suzanne Fustukian, 2002-08-08 Increasing recognition of the impact that globalisation may be having on public health has led to widespread concern about the risks arising from emerging and re emerging diseases environmental degradation and demographic change This book argues that health policy making is being affected by globalisation and that these effects are in turn contributing to the kind of global health issues being faced today The book explores how the actors context processes and content of health policy are changing as a result of globalisation raising concerns about growing differences in who can influence health policy what priorities are set what interventions are deemed appropriate and ultimately who enjoys good and bad health Bringing together a distinguished international group of contributors this book covers a comprehensive range of topics and geographic regions and will be invaluable for all those interested in health social and public policy and globalisation The Male Pill Nelly Oudshoorn, 2003-09-10 The technology has been there for over 20 years how come there is still no male pill on the market Gender in Latin America Sylvia H. Chant, Nikki Craske, 2003 A comprehensive state of the art review of gender in one of the world s most diverse and dynamic regions The authors draw on a wide range of sources including their own field research to explore changes and continuities in gender roles relations and identities during the late twentieth century into the twenty first Debunking traditional universalizing stereotypes diversity in gender is highlighted in relation to the cross cutting influences of age class sexuality ethnicity rural urban residence and migrant status

Contraception across Cultures Andrew Russell, Mary Thompson, Elisa J. Sobo, 2020-06-04 Contraception is an issue of considerable concern to a great many heterosexually active people Yet the impact of contraceptive technologies in the world today in particular their implications for kinship gender relations and other aspects of social life receives relatively little scholarly attention This book brings a new perspective to the study of contraception by collecting together in one volume leading experts in the fields of contraception family planning and reproductive health Contributors look at the social economic political and cultural contexts in which contraceptive providers and recipients make decisions about whether and what forms of contraception to use User perspectives whether those of recipients or providers of contraceptive services are taken seriously as are the perspectives of policy makers and development experts With its in depth case study approach this challenging book will appeal to practitioners and planners in the fields of family planning and reproductive health as well as to students and academics of applied and medical anthropology health studies gender and development studies or anyone interested in the social cultural and ethical issues raised by contraceptive technologies
