The Republic of China Marching Toward the 21st Century, 1991 Marching Toward the 21st Century Taiwan, 1989

蔡英, 1997 China's Communication of the Belt and Road Initiative Carolijn van

Noort, 2021-08-19 This book examines how China's international political communication of the Belt and Road Initiative comprises narratives about infrastructure and the Silk Road. By carefully selecting infrastructure modalities and Silk Road representations, it is argued that China's aesthetic production of the Belt and Road Initiative advances China's image as an infrastructure and standards setting power, conjures up a historical continuation of friendly and cooperative relations, and forges China's identity as good neighbor, good friend, and good partner. Using a multiple case study approach, this book analyses China's communication of the Second Belt and Road Forum, the Alternative North-South Road in Kyrgyzstan, the Standard Gauge Railway in Kenya, and the China-Maldives Friendship Bridge. Detailed literary analyses of the Travels of Marco Polo and the Travels of Ibn Battuta further elucidate China's selective uses of history. Chapters highlight spatial, temporal, political, economic, technological, and perceptual modalities in infrastructure narratives and reveal the composition of Silk Road narratives contributing to key debates about Chinese discourse, media strategy, and infrastructure communication. China's Communication of the Belt and Road Initiative will appeal to students and scholars of politics, international relations, communication, and Asian studies globally. China's Economic Development, 1950-2014 Chu-yuan Cheng, 2014-09-26 China's Economic Development 1950-2014: Fundamental Changes and Long-Term Prospects is a comprehensive and up-to-date analysis of Chinese economic development from 1950-2014, focusing on current world-wide attention to the economic reform. Chu-yuan Cheng covers a wide range of topics, including the cultural effects and ideological influences on China's economic development, the process of China's transition from a planned to a market economy, leadership changes, and the roots of the Cultural Revolution, the machine-building industry, and scientific and engineering manpower in China. China's new development plans in the twenty-first century and the process and consequences of the Quiet Revolution, the international economic relations, including the U.S.-China, Sino-Japanese economic relations, and access to WTO economic relations across the Taiwan Strait and the formation of the Greater China Economic Sphere, and the long-term development prospect of the Chinese economy in the twenty-first century and beyond. A Critical History of New Music in China Jingzhi Liu, 2010 By the end of the nineteenth century, Chinese culture had fallen into a stasis, and intellectuals began to go abroad for new ideas. What emerged was an exciting musical genre that C. C. Liu terms new music. With no direct ties to traditional Chinese music, new music reflects the compositional techniques and musical idioms of eighteenth and nineteenth-century European styles. Liu traces the genesis and development of new music throughout the twentieth century, deftly examining the social and political forces that shaped new music and its uses by political activists and the government. A History of the World from the 20th to the 21st Century John Ashley Soames Grenville, 2005 Provides a comprehensive

Living with the Party Yifan Shi, 2023-02-18 This book explores the subcultures cultural trends and regulations of leisure and subcultures among young people in Beijing from 1949 to the 1980s It complicates our understanding of the successes of the CCP and the nature of those successes more a synergy or synthesis than victory over society or defeat It argues that while the CCP aimed to direct the most private sphere in people's everyday life i.e. leisure it did not achieve this goal by coercive means but by appealing ways through organized leisure activities This book suggests that although elements of youth subcultures can be observed throughout the Mao era we should not treat them as a way of passive resistance Instead we must position these subcultures between different layers of the Party's leisure regulation to examine what the CCP actually achieved Many people who engaged in subcultures defied the blatant politicization of their leisure some might have defied the process of collectivization but few defied the process of institutionalization during which people did not find state intervention contradictory to their own way of pleasure seeking This book also suggests that instead of regarding the Deng Xiaoping era as a breakaway from Maoist interventionist rule we need to see the historical continuity as revealed by the Party's uninterrupted policy of leisure regulation Thought provoking and at times amusing this book will interest sinologists historians and scholars of China's social form

Chinese International Students and Citizenship Xiudi Zhang, 2020-02-22 This book investigates how Chinese international students reconfigure their sense of themselves as citizens when they reflect on what Chinese citizenship means in the context of New Zealand. Adopting a case study approach it develops a theory relating to the thoughts of Chinese international students. The theory is based on the communities schools family and state relationships of both their past and their contemporary daily experiences. It finds that the struggles of Chinese young people lie in between being individuals and submitting to the general will of the family state and guanxi a Chinese concept of interpersonal relationships. The book argues that the Western literature on citizenship is not sufficient in helping us understand how it is viewed in the Chinese contexts. It offers readers a picture of what citizenship means for Chinese young people and the role of citizenship education in Modern Chinese society and demonstrates that the Chinese young people studied re educated themselves on citizenship in a way that is unstable and emotional. This book makes important contributions to the literature on Chinese students who are studying abroad by going beyond the well researched topics of academic and social experience to explore deeper understandings of each individual student's relationship to family and the state in China and how the study abroad experience has developed new understandings of individual's relationships to China and new possibilities for contributing to Chinese society on return.
