Ethnographic Inquiry and Lived Experience Wing-Chung Ho, 2019-01-15 Ho addresses two fundamental theoretical questions about how best to practice ethnographic inquiries to obtain qualitative experience near and shareable accounts of human living The first question is regarding the epistemology of ethnography Ho posits that writing is epistemologically prior to the researcher's fieldwork experience in the production of ethnographic knowledge This stance is developed using the theories of hermeneutics put forward by Paul Ricoeur and Hans Georg Gadamer who both consider that once a text is produced its meaning is dissociated from the intention of the author The second question is what is the putative object that the ethnographer writes about Ho argues that lived experience Erlebnis offers such an ethnographic object Since the lived experience that an ethnographer experiences during fieldwork cannot be studied directly further theorizations of lived experience are necessary Ho underscores both the non discursivity and transcendence of lived experience in the lifeworld and the way power is clandestinely imbued in everyday life in shaping subjectivity and practice This theorization brings together Alfred Schutz s lifeworld theory and Michel Foucault s power knowledge nexus The result is a general theory of experience that is pertinent for ethnographic inquiries By addressing these two fundamental questions and offering novel angles from which to answer them this book offers refreshed epistemological guidelines for conducting ethnographic research for scientific reasoning More importantly this book also provides a crucial knowledge base for comprehending the current epistemological debates inherent in the production of ethnographic knowledge and furthering discussions in the field

The Handbook of Emergent Technologies in Social Research Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber,2011-03-03 New technologies are breaking the boundaries of how social researchers practice their craft and it has become clear these changes are dramatically altering research design from the way data is collected to what is considered data Bringing together all the emerging social science research technologies in one place The Handbook of Emergent Technologies in Social Research offers comprehensive and up to date thinking on emerging technologies and addresses their impact on research methods and in turn how new technologies lead to new research questions and areas of inquiry The Handbook is organized into five sections covering internet technologies emergent data collection methods audio visual mobile and geospatial technologies and technology s impact on studying social life in natural settings all after taking a look at emergent technologies from a broad social research context Many of the twenty nine chapters provide a commentary on and summary of specific technologies like global surveys on the internet mobile phones data mining and remote sensing with a central focus on the most effective ways to use them Others discuss the ethical and moral implications especially issues of privacy and confidentiality and collaborations across disciplines and outside the academy The Handbook of Emergent Technologies in Social Research is indispensable for any social researcher looking to incorporate emerging technologies into their methods and practice
