Bukowczyk provides a thorough account of the Polish experience in America and how some cultural bonds loosened as well as the ways in which others persisted The Social Basis of Community Care (Routledge Revivals) Martin Bulmer, 2015-06-11 Care for the elderly disabled and mentally ill within and by the community forms a vital part of current social policy Martin Bulmer argues that this policy is inadequately thought out and rests on a series of poorly founded sociological assumptions As a result there is a vacuum at the heart of government's social care policy which is likely to lead to ineffective or deteriorating provision for those in need This book first published in 1987 will be essential reading for all those concerned with the organization and delivery of social care whether as students practitioners or teachers It will be particularly useful for courses dealing with social policy the personal social services and the social context of social work Advances in Culture, Tourism and

Satin, 2020-09-03 These volumes make new contributions to the history of psychiatry and society in three ways First they propose a theory of values and ideology influencing the evolution of psychiatry and society in recurring cycles and survey the history of psychiatry in recent centuries in light of this theory Second they review the waxing prominence and waning of Community Mental Health as an example of a segment of this cyclical history of psychiatry Third they provide the first biography of Erich Lindemann one of the founders of social and community psychiatry and explore the interaction of the prominent contributor with the historical environment and the influence this has on both We return to the issue of values and ideologies as influences on psychiatry whether or not it is accepted as professionally proper This is intended to stimulate self reflection and the acceptance of the values sources of ideology their effect on professional practice and the effect of values based ideology on the community in which psychiatry practices The books will be of interest to psychiatric teachers and practitioners health planners and socially responsible citizens

Community Action and Climate Change Jennifer Kent, 2015-11-19 The failure of recent international negotiations to progress global action on climate change has shifted attention to the emergence of grassroots sustainability initiatives These civil society networks display the potential to implement social innovation and change processes from the bottom up Recent scholarship has sought to theorise grassroots community based low carbon practices in terms of their sustainability transition potential However there are few empirical examples that demonstrate the factors for success of community based social innovations in achieving more widespread adoption outside of their local sustainability niche The book seeks to address two significant gaps related to grassroots climate action firstly the continuing dominance of the individualisation of responsibility for climate change action which presupposes that individuals hold both the ability and desire to shift their behaviours and lifestyle choices to align with a low carbon future Secondly the potential for community based collectives to influence mainstream climate change governance an area significantly under researched Drawing on empirical research into Australian Climate Action Groups CAGs and related international research the book argues that grassroots community based collective action on climate change holds the key to broader social change This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate change citizen participation environmental sociology and sustainable development

Young People Making It Work Hernan Cuervo, Johanna Wyn, 2012-08-01 Young People Making it

Work examines a generation's lives in rural Australia over the last two decades. Against a backdrop of dramatic social, economic, and environmental change, the book tells the story of how a generation of young people have strived to remain connected to the people and places that matter to them. It transcends the assumption that rural places are one of deficit and disadvantage to focus on the ways in which powerful narratives of belonging are conceptualised. Now aged in their late thirties, these are participants in the Youth Research Centre's Life Patterns longitudinal study who left school in the early 1990s. They are members of generation X and like their peers in urban places, they have used education to achieve their goals. Their stories reveal the powerful influence of both family and place on the decisions they have made since leaving secondary school. Cuervo and Wyn draw on contemporary theory from sociology, cultural geography, and youth studies to provide new insights about youth transitions and young adulthood that are relevant not only to the rural context but to all young people.
