Maiden Voyages And Infant Colonies Two Womens Travel Narratives Of The 1790s:

Women's Travel Writing, 1750-1850 Caroline Franklin, 2022-07-30 The Romantic Period saw a massive advance in British colonial expansion which was accompanied by a corresponding expansion in travel writings These published letters journals and books provided British readers with detailed accounts of new and exotic locations and thus engaged the reading public with expansionist enterprises Covering the period of the French Revolution up until Victoria's ascendancy to the throne and featuring journeys spanning France and central Europe India and South America this collection brings together some of the most interesting travel accounts written by women at this time The authors included come from a variety of social backgrounds and their written styles are as varied as their journeys For instance Williams and Morgan were professional writers who may be described as feminists while Fay and Falconbridge were ordinary women who had been through extraordinary experiences Maiden Voyages and Infant Colonies Deirdre Coleman, 1999 Within two months of each other in 1791 two English women set sail with their husbands on relief missions to two recently established and far flung British colonies Botany Bay on the east coast of New Holland and Sierra Leone West Africa Their narratives shed light on colonialism gender and the slave trade Distributed by Continuum Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Women, Writing, and Travel in the Eighteenth Century Katrina O'Loughlin, 2018-06-14 The eighteenth century witnessed the publication of an unprecedented number of voyages and travels genuine and fictional Within a genre distinguished by its diversity curiosity and experimental impulses Katrina O Loughlin investigates not just how women in the eighteenth century experienced travel but also how travel writing facilitated their participation in literary and political culture She canvases a range of accounts by intrepid women including Lady Mary Wortley Montagu's Turkish Embassy Letters Lady Craven's Journey through the Crimea to Constantinople Eliza Justice's A Voyage to Russia and Anna Maria Falconbridge's Narrative of Two Voyages to the River Sierra Leone Moving from Ottoman courts to theatres of war O Loughlin shows how gender frames access to people and spaces outside Enlightenment and Romantic Britain and how travel provides women with a powerful cultural form for re imagining their place in the world The History of British

Women's Writing, 1750-1830 J. Labbe, 2010-08-20 This period witnessed the first full flowering of women's writing in Britain This illuminating volume features leading scholars who draw upon the last 25 years of scholarship and textual recovery to demonstrate the literary and cultural significance of women in the period discussing writers such as Austen Wollstonecraft and Mary Shelley Narrative of Two Voyages to the River Sierra Leone During the Years

1791-1792-1793 Anna Maria Falconbridge, Alexander Falconbridge, Isaac DuBois, 2000-01-01 Anna Maria Falconbridge's Narrative of Two Voyages consisting of fourteen letters to a friend about her experiences is the first published Englishwoman's narrative of a visit to West Africa Alexander Falconbridge's Account of the Slave Trade describes the horrific conditions he had witnessed in West Africa Published in 1788 by the London Committee for the Abolition of the Slave Trade it was the first piece of published abolitionist propaganda      Women Writing Home, 1700-1920 Susan Clair Imbarrato, 2024-07-31 Assembles a range of women's letters from the former British Empire These letters written home are not only historical sources they are also representations of the state of the Empire in far off lands sent home to Britain and occasionally other centres established as home      Women Writing Home, 1700-1920 Vol 2 Klaus Stierstorfer, Deirdre Coleman, Cecily Devereux, Susan Clair Imbarrato, Charlotte J Macdonald, 2024-08-07 Assembles a range of women's letters from the former British Empire These letters written home are not only historical sources they are also representations of the state of the Empire in far off lands sent home to Britain and occasionally other centres established as home      Transatlantic Women Travelers, 1688-1843 Misty Krueger, 2021-03-12 This important new collection explores representations of late seventeenth through mid nineteenth century transatlantic women travelers across a range of historical and literary works While at one time transatlantic studies concentrated predominantly on men's travels this volume highlights the resilience of women who ventured voluntarily and by force across the Atlantic some seeking mobility adventure knowledge wealth and freedom and others surviving subjugation capture and enslavement The essays gathered here concern themselves with the fictional and the historical national and geographic location racial and ethnic identities and the configuration of the transatlantic world in increasingly taught texts such as The Female American and The Woman of Colour as well as less familiar material such as Merian's writing on the insects of Surinam and Falconbridge's travels to Sierra Leone Intersectional in its approach and with an afterword by Eve Tavor Bannet this essential collection will prove indispensable as it provides fresh new perspectives on transatlantic texts and women's travel therein across the long eighteenth century      Imperial Boredom Jeffrey A. Auerbach, 2018-09-26 Imperial Boredom offers a radical reconsideration of the British Empire during its heyday in the nineteenth century Challenging the long established view that the empire was about adventure and excitement with heroic men and intrepid women eagerly spreading commerce and civilization around the globe this thoroughly researched engagingly written and lavishly illustrated account suggests instead that boredom was central to the experience of empire Combining individual stories of pain and perseverance with broader analysis Professor Auerbach considers what it was actually like to sail to Australia to serve as a soldier in South Africa or to accompany a colonial official to the hill stations of India He reveals that for numerous men and women from explorers to governors tourists to settlers the Victorian Empire was dull and disappointing Drawing on diaries letters memoirs and travelogues Imperial Boredom demonstrates that all across the empire men and women found the landscapes monotonous the physical and psychological distance from home debilitating the routines of everyday life wearisome and their work tedious and unfulfilling The empire's early years may have been about wonder and marvel but the Victorian Empire was a far less exciting project Many books about the British Empire focus on what happened this book concentrates on how people felt      Handbook of British Travel Writing Barbara Schaff, 2020-09-07 This handbook offers a systematic exploration of current key topics in travel writing studies It addresses the history impact and unique discursive variety of British travel writing by covering some of the most celebrated and canonical authors of the genre as well as lesser known ones in more than thirty close reading chapters Combining theoretically informed astute literary criticism of single texts with the analysis of the circumstances of their production and reception these chapters offer excellent possibilities for understanding the complexity and cultural relevance of British travel writing

A Path in the Mighty Waters Stephen R. Berry, 2015-01-13 In October 1735 James Oglethorpe's Georgia Expedition set sail from London bound for Georgia Two hundred and twenty seven passengers boarded two merchant ships accompanied by a British naval vessel and began a transformative voyage across the Atlantic that would last nearly five months Chronicling their passage in journals letters and other accounts the migrants described the challenges of physical confinement the experiences of living closely with people from different regions religions and classes and the multi faceted character of the ocean itself Using their specific journey as his narrative arc Stephen Berry's A Path in the Mighty Waters tells the broader and hereto underexplored story of how people experienced their crossings to the New World in the eighteenth century During this time hundreds of thousands of Europeans mainly Irish and German crossed the Atlantic as part of their martial mercantile political or religious calling Histories of these migrations however have often erased the ocean itself giving priority to activities performed on solid ground Reframing these histories Berry shows how the ocean was more than a backdrop for human events it actively shaped historical experiences by furnishing a dissociative break from normal patterns of life and a formative stage in travelers processes of collective identification Shipboard life serving as a profound conversion experience for travelers both spiritually and culturally resembled the conditions of a frontier or border zone where the chaos of pure possibility encountered an inner need for stability and continuity producing permutations on existing beliefs Drawing on an impressive array of archival collections Berry's vivid and rich account reveals the crucial role the Atlantic played in history and how it has lingered in American memory as a defining experience

A New Imperial History Kathleen Wilson, 2004-06-17 This pioneering collection of essays charts an exciting new field in British studies the new imperial history Leading scholars from history literature and cultural studies tackle problems of identity modernity and difference in eighteenth century Britain and the empire They examine from interdisciplinary perspectives the reciprocal influences of empire and culture the movements of peoples practices and ideas effected by slavery diaspora and British dominance and ways in which subaltern non western and non elite people shaped British power and knowledge The essays move through Britain America India Africa and the South Pacific in testament to the networks of people commodities and entangled pasts forged by Britain's imperial adventures Based on ground breaking research these analyses of the imperial dimensions of British culture and identities in global contexts will challenge the notion that empire was something that happened out there and they demonstrate its long lasting implications for British identity and everyday life

Telling West Indian Lives S. Thomas, 2014-07-10 Telling West Indian Lives Life Narrative and the Reform of Plantation Slavery Cultures

1804 1834 draws historical and literary attention to life story and narration in the late plantation slavery period Drawing on new archival research it highlights the ways written narrative shaped evangelical philanthropic and antislavery reform projects

Romantic Sociability Gillian Russell, Clara Tuite, 2006-04-20 This 2002 volume explores the often overlooked social networks of Romantic figures

Encyclopedia of Post-Colonial Literatures in English Eugene Benson, L.W. Conolly, 2004-11-30 Post Colonial Literatures in English together with English Literature and American Literature form one of the three major groupings of literature in English and as such are widely studied around the world Their significance derives from the richness and variety of experience which they reflect In three volumes this Encyclopedia documents the history and development of this body of work and includes original research relating to the literatures of some 50 countries and territories In more than 1 600 entries written by more than 600 internationally recognized scholars it explores the effect of the colonial and post colonial experience on literatures in English worldwide

Strolling Players of Empire Kathleen Wilson, 2022-12 Explores the politics of theatrical and social performance in the establishment of eighteenth century British imperial rule

Travel Writing 1700-1830 Elizabeth A. Bohls, Ian Duncan, 2008-08-14 How is the mind agitated and bewildered at being thus as it were placed on the borders of a new world William Bartram Thus you see dear sister the manners of mankind do not differ so widely as our voyage writers would have us believe Mary Wortley Montagu With widely varied motives scientific curiosity commerce colonization diplomacy exploration and tourism British travellers fanned out to every corner of the world in the period the Critical Review labelled the Age of Peregrination The Empire already established in the Caribbean and North America was expanding in India and Africa and founding new outposts in the Pacific in the wake of Captain Cook's voyages In letters journals and books travellers wrote at first hand of exotic lands and beautiful scenery and encounters with strange peoples and dangerous wildlife They conducted philosophical and political debates in print about slavery and the French Revolution and their writing often affords unexpected insights into the writers themselves This anthology brings together the best writing from authors such as Daniel Defoe Celia Fiennes Mary Wollstonecraft Olaudah Equiano Mungo Park and many others to provide a comprehensive selection from this emerging literary genre

Old New Zealand and Other Writings F.E. Maning, Alex Calder, 2001-08-02 In Old New Zealand 1863 F E Maning recalls living alongside Maori in the good old times before Governors were invented and law and justice and all that His account of the early contact period is widely acknowledged to be a masterpiece of some sort but the extent to which it is fiction autobiography ethnography history or satire remains a matter for debate This is the first scholarly edition of Maning's writings It includes a revealing selection of Maning's unpublished letters and Alex Calder contributes an introduction and notes that illuminate the works historical ethnographic and literary contexts showing how settler colonialism is an incomplete and contested process the problems of which are enacted in Maning s writings and repeated in the history of their reception      Captivating Subjects Julia M. Wright,Jason Haslam,Jason William Haslam,Wright,2005-01-01 This volume is the first sustained examination of the ways in which the diverse kinds of confinement intersect with Western ideologies of subjectivity investigating the modern nation state s reliance on captivity as a means of consolidating notions of individual and national sovereignty      British Travel Writers in Europe 1750-1800 Katherine Turner,2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2001 Hundreds of European travelogues produced by British travellers between 1750 and 1800 remain out of sight in most libraries and have generally been out of print since the 18th century While many people with a working knowledge of the 18th century are familiar with works including Sterne s A Sentimental Journey and Smollett s Travels through France and Italy those produced by less literary travellers are largely unknown This study aims to recreate the world of 18th century travel writing in order to illuminate its central role in shaping Britain s emerging sense of national identity an identity which proves to be more complex an less homogeneous than some cultural and historical studies would suggest The author finds that the developing discourse of national character is bound up with questions of gender national and authorial virtue are projected in terms of appropriately gendered behaviour for male and female travel writers alike In turn gender intersects with class most obviously in the tendency to denigrate aristocratic travellers as effeminate and celebrate the more manly activities of the middle class traveller These then national identity authorship and gender are the central preoccupations of the study
