Making Subjects:

Foucault and the Making of Subjects Laura Cremonesi, Orazio Irrera, Daniele Lorenzini, Martina Tazzioli, 2016-10-10 Michel Foucault's account of the subject has a double meaning it relates to both being a subject of and being subject to political forces This book interrogates the philosophical and political consequences of such a dual definition of the subject by exploring the processes of subjectivation and objectivation through which subjects are produced Drawing together well known scholars of Foucaultian thought and critical theory alongside a newly translated interview with Foucault himself the book will engage in a serious reconsideration of the notion of autonomy beyond the liberal tradition connecting it to processes of subjectivation In the face of the ongoing proliferation of analyses using the notion of subjectivation this book will retrace Foucault's reflections on it and interrogate the current theoretical and political implications of a series of approaches that mobilize the Foucaultian understanding of the subject in relation to truth and power Making Subjects of Formula \(Elementary Math Algebra\) Lee Jun Cai, Chapter 4 Making Subjects of Formulae In Chapter 4 we explore the important skill of manipulating formulae to make a specific variable the subject of the equation This chapter is key for solving problems in algebra science and engineering where understanding and rearranging formulae is essential You will learn how to isolate any variable in a formula and rewrite it in terms of other variables What You'll Learn Understanding Formulae Begin by understanding what a formula is and how it relates different variables Learn how formulae are used in real world applications from physics to finance Rearranging Simple Formulae Start with simple algebraic formulae and practice moving terms around to make one variable the subject You'll master the process of isolating variables through addition subtraction multiplication and division Rearranging Complex Formulae Build on your skills to tackle more complex formulae with multiple variables You'll learn how to apply the same principles to equations that involve more terms and operations including powers and roots Making One Variable the Subject Focus on how to isolate a specific variable within a formula whether it's a linear quadratic or fractional equation You'll gain confidence in working with a wide variety of expressions Formulae Involving Fractions Learn techniques for handling formulae that contain fractions including how to multiply both sides of an equation by the denominator to eliminate fractions and isolate the required variable By the end of this chapter you'll have the skills to rearrange and manipulate formulae to solve for any variable You'll be able to approach a wide range of algebraic problems and apply these techniques in everyday problem solving Let me know if you'd like to make any adjustments or add further details Masking Selves, Making Subjects Taise Yamamoto, 1999-01-06 This sophisticated and comprehensive study is the first to situate Japanese American women's writing within theoretical contexts that provide a means of articulating the complex relationships between language and the body gender and agency nationalism and identity Through an examination of post World War II autobiographical writings fiction and poetry Taise Yamamoto argues that these writers have employed the trope of masking textually and psychologically as a strategy to create an alternative discursive practice and to protect the self as subject Yamamoto's range is broad and her interdisciplinary approach yields richly textured in depth readings of a number of genres including film and travel narrative Looking at how the West has sexualized infantilized and feminized Japanese culture for over a century she examines contemporary Japanese American women's struggle with this orientalist fantasy Analyzing the various constraints and possibilities that these writers negotiate in order to articulate their differences she shows how masking serves as a self affirming discourse that dynamically interacts with mainstream culture's racial and sexual projections

Making Things Better A. David Napier, 2013-12-09 In Making Things Better A David Napier demonstrates how anthropological description of non Western exchange practices and beliefs can be a tonic for contemporary economic systems in which our impersonal relationship to things transforms the animate elements of social life into inanimate sets of commodities Such a fundamental transformation Napier suggests makes us automatons in globally integrated social circuits that generate a cast of winners and losers engaged in hostile competition for wealth and power Our impersonal relations to things and to people as well are so ingrained in our being we take them for granted as we sleepwalk through routine life Like the surrealist artists of the 1920s who through their art poetry films and photography fought a valiant battle against mind numbing conformity Napier provides exercises and practica designed to shock the reader from their wakeful sleep These demonstrate powerfully the positively integrative social effects of more socially entangled non Western orientations to things and to people His arguments also have implications for the rights and legal status of indigenous peoples which are drawn out in the course of the book Handbook of Models for Human Aging P. Michael Conn, 2011-04-28 The Handbook of Models for Human Aging is designed as the only comprehensive work available that covers the diversity of aging models currently available For each animal model it presents key aspects of biology nutrition factors affecting life span methods of age determination use in research and disadvantages advantages of use Chapters on comparative models take a broad sweep of age related diseases from Alzheimer's to joint disease cataracts cancer and obesity In addition there is an historical overview and discussion of model availability key methods and ethical issues Utilizes a multidisciplinary approach Shows tricks and approaches not available in primary publications First volume of its kind to combine both methods of study for human aging and animal models Over 200 illustrations Making Standards Work Douglas B.
