Climates and Societies - A Climatological Perspective M. Yoshino,Manfred Domrös,Annick Douguédroit,J.

Paszynski,L.C. Nkemdirim,2013-06-29 The impact of climate on human activities and the effect of humans on cli mate are two of the most important areas of inquiry in climatology These interactions conducted through physical chemical and biological process es were described as early as Roman and Greek times Marcus Vitruvius 75 25 B C a famous Roman engineer and architect made the following observation about the climatic conditions necessary for founding a city Land ideal for the health is slightly elevated and there should be neither fog nor frost The direction of the slope and the distance to the swamps lakes and beaches must also be considered The prevailing wind directions observed by a wind tower at the center of the city like Horologium at Athens should be taken into consideration in city planning The main and narrow streets should be placed in the middle angle of the two prevailing wind directions Then the location of the Pantheons and squares should be decided The influence of humans on climate was a major subject for discussion in the 19th century inspired in part by the rapid industrial growth and expanding deforestation of the time D L Howard wrote brilliant pieces on the climate of London in the 1830s while G P Marsh discussed the effects of forests on precipitation in the U S A in the second half of the 19th century earth's surface where semiarid to subhumid climate determines that the potential vegetation is characterized by a more or less continuous layer of grasses and other associated herbs These grasslands have been modified to a very considerable degree by the activities of man and his domesticated animals The authors of the various chapters have evaluated the effect of these stresses in modifying ecosystem structure and activities of organisms The book provides an intensively referenced and indexed synthesis and review of knowledge concerning the natural grasslands of the world in as uniform a style as possible Because of its length it is published in two parts The first part deals with the grasslands of the Western Hemisphere and the Eastern Hemisphere and the second compose this second volume Water Resources and Agricultural Development in the Tropics Christopher J. Barrow, 2016-07-01 First published in 1988 There are many excellent texts on water supply and irrigation engineering irrigation economics agricultural development and the problems which often plague such efforts Few syntheses of such writings have been made despite a clear need for them from people interested in water resources and agricultural development students of geography economics development studies and agricultural management administrators planners and aid agency staff This book attempts to provide a broad interdisciplinary introduction for such people

The Tropical Rain Forest Marius Jacobs, 2012-12-06 In recent years tropical forests have received more attention and have been the subject of greater environmental concern than any other kind of vegetation There is an increasing public awareness of the importance of these forests not only as a diminishing source of countless products used by mankind nor for their effects on soil stabilization and climate but as unrivalled sources of what today we call biodiversity Threats to the continued existence of the forests represent threats to tens of thousands of species of organisms both plants and animals It is all the more surprising therefore that there have been no major scientific accounts published in recent years since the classic handbook by Paul W Richards The Tropical Rain Forest in 1952 Some excellent popular accounts of tropical rain forests have been published including Paul Richard s The Life of the Jungle and Catherine Caulfield s In the Rainforest and Jungles edited by Edward Ayensu There have been numerous often conflicting assessments of the rate of conversion of tropical forests to other uses and explanations of the underlying causes and in 1978 UNESCO UNEPI FAO published a massive report The Tropical Rain Forest which although full of useful information is highly selective and does not fully survey the enormous diversity of the forests
