La fin de Lucie Pellegrin Paul Alexis, Jean de Palacio, 1979 "Interior Portraiture and Masculine Identity in France, 1789?914" Heather Belnap Jensen, 2017-07-05 Focusing specifically on portraiture as a genre this volume challenges scholarly assumptions that regard interior spaces as uniquely feminine Contributors analyze portraits of men in domestic and studio spaces in France during the long nineteenth century the preponderance of such portraits alone supports the book's premise that the alignment of men with public life is oversimplified and more myth than reality The volume offers analysis of works by a mix of artists from familiar names such as David Delacroix Courbet Manet Rodin and Matisse to less well known image makers including Dominique Doncre Constance Mayer Anders Zorn and Lucien Etienne Melingue The essays cover a range of media from paintings and prints to photographs and sculpture that allows exploration of the relation between masculinity and interiority across the visual culture of the period The home and other interior spaces emerge from these studies as rich and complex locations for both masculine self expression and artistic creativity Interior Portraiture and Masculine Identity in France 1789-1914 provides a much needed rethinking of modern masculinity in this period

Theatre in French Canada Leonard E. Doucette,1984-12-15 It is only recently that historians of the theatre in French Canada have turned their attention to playwrights active before the twentieth century Their practice had been to trace the roots of theatre to mid 1930s to the appearance of Father Emile Legault and his troupe the Compagnons de Saint Laurent dismissing what had gone before In this innovative history Leonard Doucette sets out deal for the first time with all plays that have survived to 1867 and to link them with the evolution of politics institutions and culture in French Canada The study of theatre has often been handicapped also by the outdated practice of defining the literary cultural history of a nation by identifying the masterpieces produced in specific periods and then defining other works in terms of what they are not The surprisingly rich and varied history of theatrical forms in French Canada has just begun to receive the attention it deserves from scholars Some of the texts and authors referred to in this history are identified for the first time the materials cited and conclusions drawn are based upon original research in major Canadian libraries as well as the works of published critics and historians The result is an excellent introduction to the various forms theatre has taken and the problems it has encountered in French Canada

Books,1971 Naturalisme pas mort Paul Alexis,1971 Correspondance générale d'Helvétius, Volume I Claude Adrien Helvétius,1981-12-15 This volume is the first of three in a complete critical edition of the letters of Claude Adrien Helvétius 1715-71 and his wife née Anne Catherine de Liginville 1722-1800 Though rank and wealth Helvétius was acquainted with the leading political and social figures of his time and through family with court and government which he occasionally served in a diplomatic capacity Philosopher and author of the explosive De l'esprit Helvétius corresponded with the great and the influential throughout Europe His letters and those of Mme Helvétius provide insights into and new information about their lives and the political social and intellectual history of the eighteenth century Volume I contains almost 250 letters written by or to Helvétius or his wife Of these the largest collections are those from Helvétius to Mme Helvétius made available by his descendants and letters from the future Mme Helvétius to her aunt Mme de Graffigny which are at Yale University Letters to or from third parties are also included Much of this correspondence has never before been published Correspondance générale d'Helvétius is fascinating to read it is indispensable for future study of Helvétius life and work and of Mme Helvétius influence on her husband his circle This volume has a preface by Comte Charles Antoine d'Andlau a descendant of Helvétius

tius and an introduction by the editors setting out their editorial and critical principles and system of annotation University of Toronto Romance Series 41 Correspondance générale d'Helvétius, Volume II Claude Adrien Helvétius, 1984-12-15 This second volume of the Correspondance générale d'Helvétius covers the period of the publication and reception of Helvétius' controversial first work De l'Esprit 1758. It begins with a letter of January 1757 in which Helvétius recounts the attempt by Damiens on the life of Louis XV and ends in December 1760 when the author, having been attacked on the stage of the Théâtre Français but eulogized in foreign journals, is contemplating voluntary exile. In the meantime De l'Esprit provoked an unprecedented outcry from the court and from the religious and civil authorities. Denigrated as the epitome of all dangerous philosophic trends of the age, condemned as atheistic, materialistic, sacrilegious, immoral and subversive, it enjoyed an immense succès de scandale. Rather than examining the puzzles and paradoxes which surround the affaire de l'Esprit, this volume presents the documents upon which solutions may be based. Helvétius' own letters, often written hastily under stress and in fear that they might be opened by the Cabinet noir, are less revealing than the letters between other protagonists in the affaire: the Cardinal de Bernis and the Duke de Choiseul, Jean Omer Joly de Fleury, Malesherbes, Saint Florentin, Tercier and Louis XV himself. It is these letters together with the appendixes containing edicts, retractions and condemnations that shed new light not only on the development of the affaire but also on the complex workings of the ancien régime.

The Rhetoric of Valéry's Prose Aubades Ursula R. Franklin, 1979-12-15 While Paul Valéry's lyric poetry as well as his dialogues, dramatic work and critical prose have preoccupied his critics, his prose poems have been virtually ignored and his position in the tradition of the genre has remained unacknowledged. This study demonstrates the significance of Valéry as a prose poet and of the form and its evolution in the poet's oeuvre. The close textual reading and analysis concentrate on Valéry's prose aubades, the prose poems, poetic prose fragments and sequences celebrating the emergence of the self and its world at dawn. The theme of dawn pervades Valéry's poetry from the opening chord of Charmes to those Notebooks which he kept from almost half a century and which are the source of so much of his poetry. This book shows how the moment and theme of dawn have also inspired the greater part of Valéry's prose poems and poetic prose fragments. Critics have begun to show interest in the break up of traditional genres and in the emergence of the fragment as a new literary form. But Valéry's position in this development has so far escaped critical inquiry as have his prose poems in general. Professor Franklin redresses the balance with rigor, poise and elegance. She shows how Valéry's artistic progression from the traditional prose poem to the fragment, the evolution of the recueil to the sequence, represents a development very similar to that which manifests in another new prose form, the nouveau roman. It is a brilliant analysis of a neglected aspect of Valéry's work and a thoughtful interpretation of Valéry's thought and poetics as a whole.

Ross Curtis, 1972-12-15 Raymond Poisson, a contemporary of Molière, was the leading comic actor with the troupe of the Hôtel de Bourgogne and later at the Comédie-Française during the first five years of its existence. He popularized one of the French stage's best loved stock characters, the impudent servant Crispin.

while finding time to supply his troupe with short comedies in which he himself starred This study is thoroughly documented and reflects the author's detailed knowledge of and interest in the period It establishes Poisson's place in theatrical history and illuminates a whole tradition in French theatre in the seventeenth century A Muse for Heroes William Calin, 1983

Critical Approaches to Rubén Darío Keith Ellis, 1974-12-15 Rubén Darío 1867-1916 of Nicaragua was the leader of the important Latin American literary movement known as Modernism He is considered by many to be the greatest poet in Latin American literature and the volume of writings devoted to his work since 1884 is perhaps greater than that on any other writer in the history of Spanish American literature The celebration in 1967 of the centenary of his birth gave rise to a formidable number of new analyses increasing the need for the classification and assessment of the many studies In this book Professor Ellis examines and evaluates the wide range of methods and perspectives available to the reader of Darío's works He considers the biographical approach social and political questions influences and sources structural analysis providing three structural studies of his own and in an appendix Darío's own concept of the role of the literary critic His book is comprehensive both in time and in range and includes an up to date bibliography This is the first systematic study of the critical works on a Spanish American writer It is significant not only in its treatment of the work on an individual author but also as a reflection on and an indication of the trends methods and preoccupations of modern appraisals of Latin American writing The Composition of Pascal's Apologia Anthony R. Pugh, 1984 Ce qu'ils vivent, ce qu'ils écrivent

Bernard Lahire, 2011 Paul Claudel's 'Le Soulier de satin' Joan S. Freilich, 1973-12-15 Claudel's most important work Le Soulier de satin has confused and puzzled readers since it first appeared Joan S. Freilich's intensive examination of Claudel's imagery combined stylistic structuralist and psychoanalytic analyses These are new methods that have been developed over the past two decades and are based on an examination of the text from the reader's point of view This is a radical break with conventional literary studies which examine literature biographically or comparatively i.e focusing on the relationship of the text to other works written by the same or different authors to the author's life and historical setting or to various linguistic norms Recent stylistic studies have as their point of departure the reader's perception of certain elements of style as unpredictable and thus marked in an otherwise unmarked context such studies seek to determine which of these stylistic devices are present within a given text and what their effect is on the reader's response to the work Structuralist analyses involve the identification and description of the basic system of concepts around which the literary text is constructed This fundamental system or structure is the source of the reader's sense that the text is a coherent whole but it is itself an abstraction and can be perceived only through one or more of the variants through which it is actualized in the text Finally the psychoanalytic interpretation of a literary work attempts to elucidate the most fundamental effective concepts conveyed through the text concepts which evoke corresponding emotional responses in the reader and which although often unrecognized are thus responsible for much of his interest in and appreciation of the work Stylistic and structuralist methods have been used together in recent years but this study of the Soulier de satin represents the first time that psychoanalytic interpretation has been included as part of a stylistic and structuralist analysis in which the focus throughout is on the relationship of the text to the reader and the point of departure is the reader's response to the work. Furthermore most Claudelian criticism has been vague and general in nature but this work is specific and represents an unusual and unique contribution Molière Harold C.
