The Routledge Handbook of the Senses in the Ancient Near East Kiersten Neumann, Allison Thomason, 2021-09-30
This Handbook is a state of the field volume containing diverse approaches to sensory experience bringing to life in an innovative remarkably vivid and visceral way the lives of past humans through contributions that cover the chronological and geographical expanse of the ancient Near East. It comprises thirty two chapters written by leading international contributors that look at the ways in which humans through their senses experienced their lives and the world around them in the ancient Near East with coverage of Anatolia Egypt the Levant Mesopotamia Syria and Persia from the Neolithic through the Roman period. It is organised into six parts related to sensory contexts Practice production and taskscape Dress and the body Ritualised practice and ceremonial spaces Death and burial Science medicine and aesthetics and Languages and semantic fields. In addition to exploring what makes each sensory context unique this organisation facilitates cross cultural and cross chronological as well as cross sensory and multisensory comparisons and discussions of sensory experiences in the ancient world. In so doing the volume also enables considerations of senses beyond the five sense model of Western philosophy sight hearing touch taste and smell including proprioception and interoception and the phenomena of synaesthesia and kinaesthesia. The Routledge Handbook of the Senses in the Ancient Near East provides scholars and students within the field of ancient Near Eastern studies new perspectives on and conceptions of familiar spaces places and practices as well as material culture and texts. It also allows scholars and students from adjacent fields such as Classics and Biblical Studies to engage with this material and is a must read for any scholar or student interested in or already engaged with the field of sensory studies in any period.

Concerning the Nations Andrew Mein, Else K. Holt, Hyun Chul Paul Kim, 2015-02-26
Isaiah Jeremiah and Ezekiel share much in common. They address the pivotal times and topics associated with the last stages of the monarchical history of Israel and with the development of new forms of communal and religious life through exile and beyond. One important structural component of all three books is a substantial section which concerns itself with a range of foreign nations commonly called the Oracles against the Nations which form the focus of this book. These chapters together present the most up to date scholarship on the oracles an oft neglected but significant area in the study of the prophetic literature. The particular characteristics of Isaiah Jeremiah both Masoretic Text and Septuagint versions and Ezekiel are discussed showcasing the unique issues pertinent to each book and the diverse methods used to address them. These evident differences aside the Oracles Against the Nations are employed as a springboard in order to begin the work of tracing similarities between the texts. By focusing on these unique yet common sections a range of interrelated themes and issues of both content and method become noticeable for example though not exhaustively pattern structure language comparative history archaeology sociology politics literature imagery theme theology and hermeneutical issues related to today's context As a result this collection presents a range of cutting edge approaches on these key prophetic books and will provide a basis for further comparative study and reflection

The Baker Illustrated Guide to Everyday Life in Bible Times John A. Beck, 2013-09-15 The authors of the Bible routinely employed mention of manners and customs from the ancient world in their inspired writing fully intending that the Lord would change readers with these images But modern readers often miss the full literal and figurative meaning of biblical imagery due to the distance in time and experience between the world of today and the world of the Bible This fully illustrated guide aims to restore clarity and vitality to these portions of God's Word in order to help readers grasp the full meaning of Scripture For example the entry on anointing defines the nature of this act and the connotations associated with it before illustrating how the biblical authors use the act of anointing in their communication with us communication that reaches its full maturity in Jesus the Anointed One Understanding manners and customs like anointing enriches our experience of reading the Bible and even helps us correctly interpret it This colorful guide clearly and succinctly introduces modern readers to daily life in Bible times The cultural practices of the past are fascinating on their own but even more so as they help us grasp the full meaning of Scripture

An Eye for Form Jo Ann Hackett, Walter E. Aufrecht, 2014-06-06 At the first meeting of his class in Northwest Semitic Epigraphy at Harvard Frank Cross would inform students that one of the things each of them needed was an eye for form By this he meant the ability to recognize typological or evolutionary change in letters and scripts Frank like his teacher William Foxwell Albright was a master of typological method In fact typology was the dominant feature of his epigraphic work from the origins of the alphabet to the development of the scripts of the Dead Sea Scrolls Indeed he has written about the importance of typology itself Because Frank Cross has so dominated the study of the ancient Near East in the last 60 years Aufrecht once asked him what he considered his primary field of study to be Without hesitation he said Epigraphy It seems therefore that the field that he loved and to which he contributed so much is an appropriate subject for this Festschrift in his honor which is being presented by his colleagues friends and former students Included are an appreciation by Peter Machinist and a contribution by the late Pierre Bordreuil

Write That They May Read Daniel I. Block, David C. Deuel, C. John Collins, Paul J. N. Lawrence, 2020-07-11 Write That They May Read is a collection of essays written in honor of our mentor friend and fellow scholar Professor Alan R Millard Respectful of his contribution to our understanding of writing and literacy in the ancient biblical world all the essays deal with some aspect of this issue ranging in scope from archeological artifacts that need to be read to early evidence of writing in Israel's world to the significance of reading and writing in the Bible including God's own literacy to the production of books in the ancient world and the significance of metaphorical branding of God's people with his name. The contributors are distributed among Professor Millard's peers and colleagues in a variety of institutions: his own students and students of his students. They represent a variety of disciplines including biblical archeology, Egyptology, Assyriology, Hebrew, and other Northwest Semitic texts and the literature of the Bible, and reside in North America, Japan, the United Kingdom, Denmark, and Germany.
