Absence in Cinema Justin Remes, 2020-07-14 Absence has played a crucial role in the history of avant garde aesthetics from the blank canvases of Robert Rauschenberg to Yves Klein's invisible paintings from the silent music of John Cage to Samuel Beckett's minimalist theater Yet little attention has been given to the important role of absence in cinema In the first book to focus on cinematic absence Justin Remes demonstrates how omissions of expected elements can spur viewers to interpret and understand the nature of film in new ways While most film criticism focuses on what is present such as images on the screen and music and dialogue on the soundtrack Remes contends that what is missing is an essential part of the cinematic experience He examines films without images such as Walter Ruttmann's Weekend 1930 a montage of sounds recorded in Berlin and films without sound such as Stan Brakhage's Window Water Baby Moving 1959 which documents the birth of the filmmaker's first child He also examines found footage films that erase elements from preexisting films such as Naomi Uman's removed 1999 which uses nail polish and bleach to blot out all the women from a pornographic film and Martin Arnold's Deanimated 2002 which digitally eliminates images and sounds from a Bela Lugosi B movie Remes maps out the effects and significations of filmic voids while grappling with their implications for film theory Through a careful analysis of a broad array of avant garde works Absence in Cinema reveals that films must be understood not only in terms of what they show but also what they withhold

Locating August Strindberg's Prose Anna Westerståhl Stenport, 2010-01-01 The setting of a novel is more than just an anonymous interchangeable backdrop In Locating August Strindberg's Prose Anna Westerståhl Stenport argues that spatial setting is a key though often neglected tool for exploring the fundamentals of European literary modernism Stenport examines the importance of location by exploring the prose of Swedish exile August Strindberg 1849 1912 challenging previous studies of the author that have focused on identity and subject formation Strindberg wrote in both Swedish and French situating his stories in various places across Europe from Berlin to the French countryside the Austrian Alps and Stockholm to purposely destabilize concepts of national belonging language and literary history Close readings of Strindberg's prose find that his boundary challenging narratives redefine and rewrite the meaning of a marginal literary identity By contextualizing Strindberg against other early modernists including Kafka Conrad Rilke and Breton Stenport emphasizes the burgeoning transnationality of literature at the turn of the last century Paris Médical, 1912 Each half year consists of two volumes Partie médicale and Partie paramédicale
