European Journal of Policing Studies, 2018-07-31 Contents Introduction Antoinette Verhage Lieselot Bisschop and Wim Hardyns br Articles How to Police a Porous Fortress Monica den Boer 1 Abstract The purpose of this article is to provide an overview of the way in which the European Union has gradually but steadily built a security architecture based on the control of mobility and borders Different logics of policing are interwoven in several projects which are strongly interdependent with technological innovation Furthermore the European policing of mobility is primarily performed by mounting surveillance both inside and beyond European borders by means of which all forms of movement transactions travelling etc are subjected to intensive monitoring by multiple actors who are interlinked through strategies and systems The main finding is that border policing is shifting in a fundamental way from fixed to fluid from territorial to virtual and from physical to technological Hence paradoxically though mobility is strongly promoted as one of the main virtues of the European Union Europe s precautionary protection may be at ill ease with the free movement of people The article seeks to stimulate the knowledge and debate about deeper shifts in Europe s security apparatus and develops this from a law enforcement perspective Keywords Europe borders security mobility technology 1 Academic Dean at the Police Academy of The Netherlands Member of the Committee on

Abstract In the German speaking academic world Police Science Polizeiwissenschaft is a fairly new and little known area of social science Accordingly the academic status of police science is anything but firmly established but rather at a hybrid stage of development The very combination of policing and academic study research seems to remain largely incompatible not only to police managers but also to main stream sociology German police science differs substantially from the Anglo American Australian approach One main difference pertains to legal traditions others are due to historical and cultural developments that will be taken up in this descriptive essay However Anglo American Australian police theories have a lot to offer to German and European police scientists and this will be demonstrated For a future common approach to an evolving European police science similar descriptions will be required from other European countries to establish a comparative foundation of joint EU police studies Some of the principal dimensions of such a comparison will be sketched in this essay It concludes with a presentation of empirically based police studies carried out by instructors and Master students at the newly founded German Police University in Münster Topics are media coverage of clashes between police and demonstrators a typology of third party intervention in cases of assault in public places and COREPOL EU FP7 a comparative security research project aiming at an improvement of police minority relations through means of restorative justice programs
