up approaches to curriculum development and provides an indication of the broad qualities that school education should promote rather than a detailed description of curriculum content. Advocates of the approach argue that it provides central guidance for schools and maintains national standards whilst at the same time allowing schools and teachers the flexibility to take account of local needs when designing programmes of education. Reinventing the Curriculum uses Scotland's Curriculum for Excellence as a rich case study analysing the strengths and weaknesses of this approach to curriculum design and development and exploring the implications for curriculum planning and development around the world.

Teaching History in a Neoliberal Age Mary Woolley, 2019-09-04 This book explores changing practice in history classrooms from the autonomy of the 1980s through the introduction of GCSEs and the National Curriculum to the prescription of the National Strategies and the pervasive influence of league tables in the first decade of the twenty first century. It uses individual narratives from history teachers to shed light on a changing profession. Showcasing research that is crucial reading for leaders in education it uses oral accounts from 13 experienced teachers to provide a rich testimony of the constraints and affordances acting on history teachers. The book offers a unique perspective to show how teachers experienced steady but substantial changes in policy and autonomy and how this affected their practice. This detail enhances an analysis of policy and curricular documents across three decades. The findings are crucial for educational settings today facing crises of teacher recruitment and teacher retention. This book will be of great interest to academics and higher degree research students in history education, history of education and education policy. The Metrics of Teacher Effectiveness and Teacher Quality Research Andrew Skourdoumbis, Shaun Rawolle, 2020-03-05 Most developed nations measure the performance of teachers in audit evaluations of school productivity. Accountability metrics such as teacher effectiveness and teacher quality dominate evaluations of student outcomes and shape education policy. The Metrics of Teacher Effectiveness and Teacher Quality Research explores how these metrics distort analyses of student achievement, sideline broader contextual and systemic influences on learning, reinforce input/output analysis of schooling and skew the educational debate. Focusing on recent phases of school education policy reform, this book utilizes qualitative data from classroom teacher participants to examine how and why issues of teacher effectiveness and teacher quality figure so prominently in policy reform and why pressing matters of social class, school funding and broader contextual influences are downplayed. The authors use this information to suggest how teachers can develop their role as pedagogic experts in a highly scrutinized environment. This book will be of great interest to education academics and postgraduate students specializing in teacher performance, accountability and governance.

World-Centred Education Gert Biesta, 2021-07-12 This book makes an intervention in a long standing discussion by arguing that education should be world centred rather than child centred or curriculum centred This is not just because education should provide students with the knowledge and skills to act effectively in the world but is first and foremost because the world is the place where our existence as human beings takes place In the seven chapters in this book Gert Biesta explores in detail what an existential orientation to education entails and why this should be an urgent concern for education today He highlights the importance of teaching not understood as the transmission of knowledge and skills but as an act of re directing the attention of students to the world so that they may encounter what the world is asking from them The book thus shows why teaching matters for education It also highlights the unique position of the school as the place where the new generation is given the time to meet the world and meet themselves
