Fostering Mixed Race Children

Fiona Peters, 2017-01-13 The mixed race classification is known to be a factor of disadvantage in children's social care and this fastest growing population is more likely than any other ethnic group to experience care admission How does knowledge of mixedness underpin policy and practice How when and why is the classification mixed a disadvantage Through narrative interviews with children currently in foster care Fostering Mixed Race Children examines the impact of care processes on children's everyday experiences Peters shows how the mixed race classification affects care admission including both short and long term fostering and care leaving and shapes the experiences of children in often adverse ways The book moves away from the psychologising of mixedness towards a much needed sociological analysis of mixedness and mixing at the intersection of foster care processes This book will be of interest to academics and practitioners working with families and children Peters presents a child centred narrative focus and offers unique insights into a complex area

Cross-Cultural Child Development for Social

Workers Lena Robinson, 2018-06-26 Social workers today operate in an increasingly ethnically diverse society yet many of the models that they use fail to reflect that diversity Lena Robinson's exciting and innovative text draws on literature from Britain and North America to explain child development from a cross cultural black and ecological perspective Using practice examples to illuminate key points for social workers she considers a range of key topics from attachment to identity and communication to socialization This will be essential reading for social workers at all stages of their careers who want to develop strength based anti racist and culturally sensitive practice

Adoption from Care Marit Skivenes, Tarja Pösö, June Thoburn, 2021-05-05 EPDF and EPUB available Open Access under CC BY NC ND This book explores how children s rights are practised and weighed against birth and adoptive parents rights and examines how governments and professionals balance rights when it is decided that children cannot return to parental care. From different socio-political and legal contexts in Europe and the United States, it provides an in-depth analysis of concepts of family contact, the child's best interest principle, and human rights when children are adopted from care. Taking an international comparative approach to these issues, this book provides detailed information on adoption processes and shares learning from best practice and research across country boundaries to help improve outcomes for all children in care for whom adoption may be the placement of choice.

Young People and the Care Experience Julie Shaw, Nick Frost, 2013-04-12

The care system looks after the most vulnerable young people in society: those who are, for a variety of reasons, unable to live with their parents. Young People and the Care Experience examines what can be done to support young people to remain at home and, if this is not possible, how they can be supported whilst in care and on leaving care. The book explores the range of options: foster care, children's homes, and adoption, and how these options interact. Using the latest research and framing the issues through both psycho-social and legal perspectives, the book provides an in-depth analysis of young people's experience of the care system and how it can be improved. Examining the challenges faced by children on their journey from initially entering care to living independently after care, the book places these issues in a global context. Specifically, it discusses how to support children and young people at home; an analysis of the history and demographics of children placed in care; the challenges faced by children living in foster care; the challenges faced by children living in a children's home; the challenges faced by children being adopted; leaving care. The book will be of interest to all those working with children in care or those who have experience of the care system as a professional carer or young person. It will also be of interest to researchers and students of developmental and social psychology, social work, and also to policy makers.
