Voller,C.M. Abraham,2012-12-06 It was not too long ago that many physicians and biomedical scientists felt that the era of vaccines for protecting mankind against infectious disease was coming to an end During the 1940s and 50s the widespread use of newly developed antibiotics and antimicrobial chemotherapeutic agents suggested a new era in medicine i.e the control and eventual elimination of all infectious diseases at least those caused by bacteria by chemical means The magic bullet proposed by Paul Ehrlich in the early 1900s seemed to be the method of choice for controlling infection However it is now quite evident that those high expectations were unwarranted Although many acute infections especially those caused by pyogenic cocci have been controlled by antibiotics it is quite evident that infectious diseases even those caused by bacteria still are a major problem Thus the old standby of preventative vaccination is making a strong comeback not only for viral but also for bacterial infections However except for a relatively small number of viral diseases and those bacterial diseases due to toxin elaborated by microorganisms rather than invasion and replication of the microbe per se preventative vaccination still has not fulfilled the expectations of their proponents There has been a recent resurgence of interest concerning all aspects of vaccines not only their preparation and administration but also the nature and mechanism of the host immune response to the constituent micro organisms and their products National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1971 The Virus Cancer Program National Cancer Institute (U.S.). Michalak,2020-08-14 Chronic hepatitis B CHB is a life threatening liver disease affecting 257 million people worldwide in particular in the Asia Pacific regions In endemic areas hepatitis B virus HBV is usually transmitted from chronically infected mothers to neonates Perinatal HBV infection causes chronic infection in more than 90% of exposed individuals With perinatal infection lifetime mortality risk due to complications of liver cirrhosis LC or hepatocellular carcinoma HCC reaches up to 40% in men and 15% in women For the treatment of chronic HBV infection nucleos t ide analogue antivirals have been successfully used to suppress viral replication However HBV exists as a cccDNA which cannot be eliminated by nucleos t ide analogues Therefore a practical goal of novel HBV therapeutics can be HBs seroconversion loss of HBsAg and development of HBsAg specific antibodies which occurs during spontaneous recovery from acute HBV infection This HBs seroconversion is referred to as functional cure of HBV infection When functional cure is reached HBsAg specific antibodies have virus neutralizing activity and control HBV infection even in the presence of cccDNA Currently peg IFN a is often used to induce HBs seroconversion in patients with chronic HBV infection however the efficacy is not satisfactory In future other immunological therapeutics must be considered to achieve HBs seroconversion including therapeutic vaccines and immune checkpoint blockers An International Perspective on the Future of Research in Chronic Fatigue Syndrome Christopher R. Snell,2012-02-15 While the chapters in this book are a long way from solving the enigma that is CFS they do represent important attempts to understand this complex and perplexing disease A common theme in them all is CFS as a multisystem disease with the possibility of more than one cause and influenced by a variety of interacting factors Further they acknowledge the reality of CFS for persons with this disease and the importance of finding causes treatments and ultimately a cure As advanced biomedical research techniques are increasingly applied to the study of CFS it is surely only a matter of time before biomarkers are identified etiologies understood and remedies devised
