

Renewable Resource Management

- Resources are either renewable, such as soil, or nonrenewable, such as fossil fuels.
- Goal is sustainability—resource use that occurs only as fast as can be naturally replaced.

Dawson, John C. Hendee, 2019-10-24

The introductory course in natural resources is broader and more diverse than ever Today s students need to know how to manage forest wildlife watershed and range resources in a variety of environments and serving the needs of myriad stakeholders To that end Chad Dawson has built on the foundation established by him and the late John Hendee to bring Introduction to Forests and Renewable Resources thoroughly up to date The Ninth Edition has been reorganized to better address content for example policy and the differences between managing federal state and private land that applies to all resources While forests continue to be emphasized more coverage is provided to other resources and to achieving management goals for multiple resources when considering topics like fire and recreation

Renewable Resource Management in Agriculture World Bank. Operations Evaluation Department, 1989 For more than two decades there has been growing concern over the environmental implications of development There is evidence that the mismanagement of renewable resources has been widespread as populations have increased and countries have tried to cope with the imperative need to promote economic growth This report analyzes the results of 355 agriculture and forestry projects in the tropics which have been completed Further it examines the findings in the case studies of 12 countries These countries represent the three principal tropical ecologic zones Specifically the report consists of six chapters Chapter 1 reviews the findings of PPARs PCRs and IERs on resource management issues Chapters 2 through 4 summarize the main findings of the 12 case studies of countries Chapter 5 examines the Bank s role in identifying and dealing with policy issues affecting resource management Chapter 6 discusses the opportunities and constraints that exist if the Bank is to address resource management issues more effectively Renewable Resource Management for Forestry and Agriculture, 1978
