The Representation of Business in English Literature Arthur Pollard, 2010 The Representation of Business in English Literature Arthur Pollard, Geoffrey Carnall, 2000 Representation of Business in English Literature Representation of Business in English Literature Arthur Pollard, 2010 The Oxford Handbook of Identities in Organizations Andrew D. Brown, 2020-01-16 Conceived as the meanings that individuals attach to their selves a substantial stockpile of theory related to identities accumulated across the arts social sciences and humanities over many decades continues to nourish contemporary research on self identities in organizations. In times which are more reflexive narcissistic and fluid the identities of participants in organizations are increasingly less fixed and less certain making identity issues both more salient and more interesting Particular attention has been given to processes of identity construction often styled identity work Research has focused on how why and when such processes occur and their implications for organizing and individual group and organizational outcomes This has resulted in a burgeoning stream of research from discursive dramaturgical symbolic socio cognitive and psychodynamic perspectives that most often casts individuals efforts to fabricate identities as intentional relational and consequential Seemingly intractable debates centred on the nature of identities their relative stability or fluidity whether they are best regarded as coherent or fractured positive or not and how they are fabricated within relations of power combined with other conceptual issues continue to invigorate the field However these debates have also led to some scepticism regarding the future potential of identities research Yet as the chapters in this Handbook demonstrate there are considerable grounds for optimism that identity as root metaphor nexus concept and means to bridge levels of analysis has significant potential to generate multiple compelling streams of theorizing in organization and Culture and Commerce in Conrad's Asian Fiction Andrew Francis, 2015-04-23 Andrew Francis management studies Culture and Commerce in Conrad's Asian Fiction is the first book length critical study of commerce in Conrad's work It reveals not only the complex connections between culture and commerce in Conrad's Asian fiction but also how he employed commerce in characterization moral contexts and his depiction of relations at a point of advanced European imperialism Conrad's treatment of commerce Arab Chinese and Malay as well as European is explored within a historically specific context as intricate and resistant to traditional readings of commerce as simple and homogeneous Through the analysis of both literary and non literary sources this book examines capitalism colonialism and globalization within the commercial political and social contexts of colonial Southeast Asia Managing Britannia Robert Protherough, John Pick, 2016-07-06 For more than thirty years the solution to all Britain's problems has been better management As a result management schools dominate higher education and managers are at work everywhere developing strategies and systems and quantifying outcomes There are now more managers on the rail network than train drivers yet the benefits of modern management of railways schools hospitals and universities are elusive This is because management does not exist the academic study of management science and the assumption that there are universal management skills are bogus This book shows how modern management practices have all but destroyed politics education culture and religion modern management is the cause of our national malaise Guilty Money Ranald C Michie, 2015-09-30 This is an engaging study of the place occupied by the City of London within British cultural life during the Victorian and Edwardian periods Michie uses both literary and popular novels to examine socio economic representations during this period The Business of News in England, 1760–1820 Victoria E.
