Abstract: Psychiatry residency programs with robust research training can prepare physician-scientists to make contributions that advance the mental health field. Our psychiatry residency developed a chief resident for research position to help provide mentorship, community building, and advising around scholarly activities for residents. We present the process of implementing this new position in our residency to offer a model for engaging psychiatry residents in research.

Keywords: academic psychiatry, residency training, research career

Introduction

There is a critical need for more physician-scientists trained in basic, clinical, and public health research in mental health.^{1,2} Psychiatrists, in particular, can play a key role in carrying out translational work that bridges the gap between the rapidly expanding field of neurobehavioral sciences and patient care.³ Recently, psychiatry residencies have been gaining popularity among physician-scientist trainees. Encouraging clinician scientists to maintain research momentum throughout psychiatry residency and guiding qualified researchers into the field calls for a robust research program with mentorship spanning the residency training experience.⁴

The Chief Resident for Research (CRR) role was developed to respond to the increasing size of the research track in a large academic psychiatry residency training program and provide near-peer mentorship, support, and leadership. In addition, residents in chief roles have substantial opportunities to develop their own leadership, teaching, and mentorship skills.⁵ Expanding the chief resident model beyond the traditional clinical chief roles increases leadership opportunities, allows for specialization, provides tailored support to residents with diverse career interests, and balances duties among chiefs. Non-psychiatry residencies have introduced novel chief roles, such as the Chief Resident for Research, but few psychiatry programs have followed suit.⁶

This report describes the development and implementation of the CRR role within an adult psychiatry residency training program based at a large academic institution in the United States. Since 2015, the residency program has appointed one CRR each year. This psychiatry residency training program has a research track that aims to expand the pipeline of psychiatrist researchers. Time dedicated to research increases throughout residency, from 5% during intern year to >75%

Research Training in Psychiatry Residency Institute of Medicine, Board on Neuroscience and Behavioral Health, Committee on Incorporating Research into Psychiatry Residency Training, 2004-01-23 The number of psychiatric researchers does not seem to be keeping pace with the needs and opportunities that exist in brain and behavioral medicine An Institute of Medicine committee conducted a broad review of the state of patient oriented research training in the context of the psychiatry residency and considered the obstacles to such training and strategies for overcoming those obstacles Careful consideration was given to the demands of clinical training The committee concluded that barriers to research training span three categories regulatory institutional and personal factors Recommendations to address these issues are presented in the committee's report including calling for research literacy requirements and research training curricula tailored to psychiatry residency programs of various sizes The roles of senior investigators and departmental leadership are emphasized in the report as is the importance of longitudinal training e g from medical school through residency and fellowship As there appears to be great interest among numerous stakeholders and a need for better tracking data an overarching recommendation calls for the establishment of a national body to coordinate and evaluate the progress of research training in psychiatry

Directions in Psychiatry Maurizio Pompili, Roger McIntyre, Andrea Fiorillo, Norman Sartorius, 2020-06-08. This book focuses on hot issues faced by clinicians in everyday clinical practice and provides in-depth analyses of both met and unmet needs in the management of psychiatric disorders. It has been repeatedly shown that the needs of patients, relatives, the community at large, and those of the governmental bodies only partially overlap. For instance, patients in their families are more concerned about quality of life, treatment autonomy, and independent living, whereas governmental stakeholders are typically more concerned about relapse prevention and reduction of hospitalizations. As such, a volume bridging the gap between theoretical notions and practical understanding of patients' untreated aspects of their psychiatric disorders is much needed. Instead of focusing on traditional descriptions of psychopathology and diagnostic criteria, the volume guides readers to core problems for each topic, taking into account new approaches in the classification of mental disorders as proposed by DSM-5. It elaborates on much-debated controversial problems such as the assessment and treatment of psychomotor agitation and non-adherence to treatment that impacts on the psychiatric context. With its unique approach, this volume appeals to anyone with

Johnson,Lane P. Johnson,2009-10-27 As Dr Cullen s chapter on information technology points out what is required is not just a new electronic system that follows the patients but a new language that creates and defines a system that can appropriately care for the patient What we design for the complexities of caring for the medically underserved can serve as model for caring for everyone in this country Many innovative bold and wonderful solutions have been developed as local regional models As communities and states we can learn from and support each other

But the local models are not by and large self sustaining Ultimately so tions to the lack of medical insurance in this country will require a national persp tive and federal funding That is part of the work we all must do and Dr Dalen s chapter points out some of the possibilities and pitfalls other countries have experienced When I wonder how the system we have hasn t already collapsed from its own weight I just need to look at the people working within it Healthcare is a service industry and we have been blessed with professionals who understand and live the concept of service in their daily lives who go the extra mile for the patient despite the vagaries the barriers and the sometimes mean spiritedness of the organi tional infrastructure
