Schmidt, 2013-08 A study of race and sexuality and their interdependencies in American literature from 1945 to 1955 Desegregating Desire examines the varied strategies used by eight American poets and novelists to integrate sexuality into their respective depictions of desegregated places and emergent identities in the aftermath of World War II Focusing on both progressive and conventional forms of cross race writing and interracial intimacy the book is organized around four pairs of writers Chapter one examines reimagined domestic places and the ambivalent desires that define them in the southern writing of Elizabeth Bishop and Zora Neale Hurston The second chapter focused on poets Gwendolyn Brooks and Edwin Denby analyzes their representations of the postwar American city representations which often transpose private desires into a public imaginary Chapter three explores how insular racial communities in the novels of Ann Petry and William Demby were related to non normative sexualities emerging in the early Cold War The final chapter focused on damaged desires considers the ways that novelists Jo Sinclair and Carl Offord relocate the public traumas of desegregation with the private spheres of homes and psyches Aligning close textual readings with the segregated histories and interracial artistic circles that informed these Cold War writers this project defines desegregation as both a racial and sexual phenomenon one both public and private In analyzing more intimate spaces of desegregation shaped by regional familial and psychological upheavals after World War II Tyler T Schmidt argues that queer desire understood as same sex and interracial desire redirected American writing and helped shape the Cold War era's integrationist politics Research in Archives Philip Coolidge Brooks, 1982-11 The Grand Documentation Eduard Kögel, 2015-07-31 Ernst Boerschmann was the most influential foreign architectural researcher in China in the first half of the twentieth century This book concerns his three year research expedition through the Chinese Empire 1906 1909 He was the first Westerner to systematically document China's religious architecture returning from his travels with thousands of photographs sketches and architectural surveys His six major publications leading up to 1931 described here alongside the reactions they caused were milestones on the path to formal study of Chinese architectural history long before Chinese academics themselves began to take interest in the
