An Introduction to Scientific Research Methods in Geography and Environmental Studies Daniel Montello, Paul Sutton, 2012-12-10 Covers a broad range of subjects that undergraduates in the discipline should be familiar and comfortable with upon graduation From chapters on the scientific method and fundamental research concepts to experimental design sampling and statistical analysis the text offers an excellent introduction to the key concepts of geographical research The content is applicable for students at the beginning of their studies right through to planning and conducting dissertations The book has also been of particular support in designing my level 1 and 2 tutorials which cover similar ground to several of the chapters Joseph Mallalieu School of Geography Leeds University Montello and Sutton is one of the best texts I've used in seminars on research methodology The text offers a clear balance of quantitative vs qualitative and physical vs human which I've found particularly valuable The chapters on research ethics scientific communication information technologies and data visualization are excellent Kenneth E Foote Department of Geography University of Colorado at Boulder This is a broad and integrative introduction to the conduct and interpretation of scientific research covering both geography and environmental studies Written for undergraduate and postgraduate students it Explains both the conceptual and the technical aspects of research as well as all phases of the research process Combines approaches in physical geography and environmental science human geography and human environment relations and geographic and environmental information techniques such as GIS cartography and remote sensing Combines natural and social scientific approaches common to subjects in geography and environmental studies Includes case studies of actual research projects to demonstrate the breadth of approaches taken It will be core reading for students studying scientific research methods in geography environmental studies and related disciplines such as planning and earth science

Methods in Human Geography Robin Flowerdew, David M. Martin, 2013-10-08 First published in 2004 This text is an essential guide to current research approaches in human geography covering all aspects of undertaking a geography research project from the selection of an appropriate topic through to the organisation and writing of the final report Covering a wide range of contemporary research methods the authors provide practical advice on how to actually undertake a project Introduction to Scientific Geographic Research L. Lloyd Haring, John F. Lounsbury, 1971 Key Methods in Geography Nicholas Clifford, Meghan Cope, Thomas Gillespie, 2023-04-13 Key Methods in Geography is the perfect introductory companion providing an overview of qualitative and quantitative methods for human and physical geography The fourth edition of this essential and accessible primer covers the breadth of the discipline and offer critical and contextual perspectives on research methods New coverage takes account of newer technologies and practice and 9 new chapters bring greater diversity of positionality and perspective to the volume including decolonial methods predicting visualizing and modelling climate and environmental change and writing up research Case study examples summaries and exercises have been included in each chapter to enable learning This is vital reading for any student undertaking a Geography Methods module as well as a valuable resource for any student embarking on independent research as part of their degree An Introduction to Scientific Research Methods in Geography Daniel R. Montello, 2006 Explaining the key elements of scientific philosophy and basic research concepts this text discusses all parts of the research process including generating research ideas data analysis and the use of geographic information techniques Progress in Geography International Reviews of Current Research , 1969 Fostering Transformative Research in the Geographical Sciences National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, Geographical Sciences Committee, Committee on Identifying Transformative Research in the Geographical Sciences, 2019-04-22 The central purpose of all research is to create new knowledge In the geographical sciences this is driven by a desire to create new knowledge about the relations between space place and the anthropogenic and non anthropogenic features and processes of the Earth But some research goes beyond these modest aims and creates new opportunities for further research or affects the process of knowledge acquisition more broadly or changes the way other researchers in a domain think about the world and go about their business Due to its positive impacts transformative research can be regarded as inherently having greater value than more conventional research and funding agencies clearly regard transformative research as something to be encouraged and funded through special programs Assessments of transformative research funding initiatives are few and provide a mixed picture of their effectiveness The challenge is whether transformative research can be identified at the time it is proposed rather than after it has been conducted communicated and its influence on the discipline has become clear Fostering Transformative Research in the Geographical Sciences reviews how transformative research has emerged in the past what its early markers were and makes recommendations for how it can be nurtured in the future Researching Human Geography Anna Davies, Keith Hoggart, Loretta Lees, 2014-04-04 Researching Human Geography is an essential new text for any geography student about to embark on a research project An understanding of how different theories of knowledge have influenced research methodologies is crucial in planning and designing effective research this book makes this link clear and explores how various philosophical positions from positivism to post structuralism have become associated with particular methodologies The book gives an overview of a wide range of methods and data collection both quantitative and qualitative and explores their strengths and weaknesses for different kinds of research Researching Human Geography also looks at the various techniques available for the analysis of data which is presented as an integral and ongoing part of the research process Clearly written with extensive use of examples from previous research to show methodology in action this new text is an invaluable addition to both the theory and method of research in human geography Research in Geography, 1955

Methods in Human Geography Robin Flowerdew, David Martin, 1997 Methods in Human Geography offers an accessible overview of both qualitative and quantitative research techniques Each chapter is written by an expert on the featured topic and includes advice on preparing a research report Research Opportunities in Geography at the U.S. Geological Survey National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, Committee on Research Priorities in Geography at the U.S. Geological Survey, 2002-11-24 Research Opportunities in Geography at the U S Geological Survey USGS provides perspective and guidance to the geography discipline about its future research and strategic directions The book makes specific recommendations about scientific research priorities and partnerships within and outside the agency and outlines a long term core research agenda for the USGS Pedagogic Research in Geography Higher Education Martin Haigh, Debby Cotton, Tim Hall, 2017-10-02 There are many books about teaching in Geography but this is the first dealing specifically with Pedagogic Research its methods and practices Pedagogy research concerns the processes of learning and the development of learners It is a learner centred activity that aims to evaluate and improve the ways that students learn and learn to manage control and comprehend their own learning processes first as Geographers in Higher Education but equally as future educated citizens This book collects together some key research papers from the Journal of Geography in Higher Education They concern original research and critical perspectives on how Geographers learn critical evaluations of both new and traditional frameworks and methods used for Pedagogic research in Geography and some case studies on the promotion of self authorship learner autonomy in key Geography Higher Education contexts such as fieldwork and undergraduate project work This book is a compilation of articles from various issues of the Journal of Geography in Higher Education Research in Education, 1974 Research Reports - National Geographic Society National Geographic Society (U.S.), 1968 Abstracts and reviews of research and exploration authorized under grants from the National Geographic Society Research in Human Geography Michael Chisholm, 1971 Research, Grades 6 - 12 Meister, 2008-09-02 Build reference skills for students in grades 4 and up using Research Ready to Go Topics for Building Reference Skills This 64 page book is perfect for classroom centers unit launches small and large group activities and take home assignments The activities can be used in any order and with the ongoing curriculum Students write reports prepare presentations and delve into related topics from science history geography math geology and everyday themes The Science of Geography National Research Council (U.S.). Ad Hoc Committee on Geography, 1965 Thinking Big Data in Geography Jim Thatcher, Andrew Shears, Josef Eckert, 2018-04 Thinking Big Data in Geography offers a practical state of the field overview of big data as both a means and an object of research with essays from prominent and emerging scholars such as Rob Kitchin, Renee Sieber and Mark Graham. Part 1 explores how the advent of geoweb technologies and big data sets has influenced some of geography's major subdisciplines: urban politics and political economy, human environment interactions and geographic information sciences. Part 2 addresses how the geographic study of big data has implications for other disciplinary fields, notably the digital humanities and the study of social justice. The volume concludes with theoretical applications of the geoweb and big data as they pertain to society as a whole, examining the ways in which user-generated data come into the world and are complicit in its unfolding. The contributors raise caution regarding the use of spatial big data, citing issues of accuracy, surveillance and privacy.

Geography Education Research in the UK: Retrospect and Prospect Graham Butt, 2020 This book provides a unique assessment of the development of research in geography education and its future prospects, offering a challenging critique of subject-based education research with particular reference to geography education across a range of different jurisdictions. It covers a range of topics including the changing role of research in geography education, the relationship between education research and professional practice with special reference to geography education research, the place of academic subject knowledge in geography education research, critiques of the functions of research in geography education and the key issues for education policy and policymakers concerning educational research at national and international levels. Importantly, in a period marked by radical change for education research and researchers, the book offers a timely appraisal of possible ways forward for geography education research. Addressing the needs of academics, research students, policymakers and education practitioners who undertake, use or shape the future of research in geography education, it comprehensively explores the forces that have driven the development of geography education research and pedagogy. Further, by positioning its analysis in the context of education policy debates in the UK and further afield, it assesses the role and function of research in education and offers an outlook on its future. This book is essential reading for all those who wish to understand the sporadic and increasingly uncertain development of subject-based research in education.
