Gordon L Heath, 2014-09-25 Most accounts of Canada and the First World War either ignore or merely mention in passing the churches experience Canadian Churches and the First World War addresses this surprising neglect exploring the marked relationship between Canada's Great War and Canadian churches in intricate detail The authors of this volume provide a detailed summary of various Christian traditions and the war both synthesising and furthering previous research In addition to examining the experience of Roman Catholics English and French speaking Anglicans Presbyterians Methodists Baptists Lutherans Mennonites and Quakers there are chapters on precedents formed during the South African War the work of military chaplains and the roles of church women on the home front Reprinted in the centenary year of the conflict's outbreak Canadian Churches and the First World War acts as a sobering reminder of the devastating impact the Great War had on Canada and the rest of the world in the early twentieth century It will inspire those with a keen interest in theological military and women's history along with academics and students whose areas of research cover the monumental events of 1914-18 This article gives an exquisite insight into the stance of the Canadian churches during the First World War Martin Grechat Theologische Literatur Zeitung 141 Jahrgang Heft 4 April 2016 Projecting Canada Zoë Druick, 2007-02-22

Based on newly uncovered archival information and a close reading of numerous NFB films Projecting Canada explores the NFB's involvement with British Empire communication theory and American social science Using a critical cultural policy studies framework Druick develops the concept of government realism to describe films featuring ordinary people as representative of segments of the population She demonstrates the close connection between NFB production policies and shifting techniques developed in relation to the evolution of social science from the 1940s to the present and argues that government policy has been the overriding factor in determining the ideology of NFB films Projecting Canada offers a compelling new perspective on both the development of the documentary form and the role of cultural policy in creating essential spaces for aesthetic production
