Reflections On A Workplace Visit

This email was written from one pastor to his mentor, reflecting on the power of visiting congregants at work.

Workplace Visit

Hey John,

I think you'll love Steve Garber, who is a retired pastor who spends time in their congregants' places of work. He suggested that maybe 30 minutes prior to a lunch appointment with someone, we should meet at his/her place of work, get a tour, ask lots of questions, and get a sense of what they do all day every day. After all, Garber said, each our congregants spend upwards of 2 hours a week at our place of work (worship, midweek, prayer meeting etc.) watching us do what we do.

Reflective Practice in Education and Social Work Robyn Ewing, Fran Waugh, David L. Smith, 2021-12-14 This book offers unique interdisciplinary insights into developing connections between reflective practice and employability particularly through the lenses of the education and social work professions It recognises the various meanings that can be applied to the notion of reflection and examines the challenges of using reflective practice in the workplace The chapters explore the tensions that arise from preparing professionals to be agents of change and concerned with social justice and equity Further the book provides much needed perspective on how diverse positions can be identified and leveraged and shared meanings negotiated in the creation of meaningful professional learning resources for early career teachers and social workers and across the career continuum Bringing together contributions from internationally renowned scholars Reflective Practice in Education and Social Work is essential reading for early career and experienced professionals in education and social work academics and practitioners seeking further professional development in reflective practice Practicing Critical

Reflection in Social Care Organisations Jan Fook, 2021-09-09 This book explores concrete examples of different strategies and activities aimed at creating and embedding critically reflective learning and working environments within organisations whose prime function is social care Critical reflection has long been recommended as a general professional skill and is a core component of the practice capabilities in social work in countries across the Western world However despite unequivocal support for it in social work education sustaining critical reflection within organisations as both an individual and collective practices supported by organisational cultures is problematic With contributions from social work practitioners and educators who have sought to embed critical reflection into broader activities and cultures within their organizations the book addresses common features of critical reflection and challenges and benefits in specific case studies This book will inspire and develop new thinking and vision about being critically reflective in organisations and facilitate efforts to improve the learning and working experience in addition to that of service quality and delivery It will be required reading for all undergraduate and postgraduate social work modules focusing on management leadership organizational change and professional education The SAGE Handbook of Workplace Learning Margaret Malloch, Len Cairns, Karen Evans, Bridget N

O'Connor, 2010-09-21 This Handbook provides a state of the art overview of the field of workplace learning from a global perspective The authors are all well placed theoreticians researchers and practitioners in this burgeoning field which cuts across higher education vocational education and training post compulsory secondary schooling and lifelong education The volume provides a broad based yet incisive analysis of the range of theory research and practical developments in workplace learning The editors draw together the three essential areas of Theory Research and Practice and Issues and Futures in the field of Workplace Learning In addition final chapters include recommendations for further development Key researchers and writers in the field have approached workplaces as the base of learning about work that is work based learning There has also been emerging interest in variations of this idea such as learning about through and at work Many of the theoretical discussions have centred on adult learning and some on learners managing their own learning with emphasis on aspects such as communities of practice and self directed learning In Europe and Australia early work in the field was often linked to the Vocational Education and Training VET traditions with concerns around skills competencies and on the job learning The idea that learning and workplaces had more to do with real lifelong and lifewide aspects than traditional training regimens has emerged in the last decade Since the mid 1990s the field has grown world wide as an area of theory research and practical work that has not only expanded the interest but has also legitimized the area as a field of study reflection and progress The SAGE Handbook of Workplace Learning draws together a wide range of views theoretical dispositions and assertions and provides a leading edge presentation by key writers and researchers with insight into the field and its current state It is a resource for researchers and academics interested in the scope and breadth of Workplace Learning
