Reflective Practice and Its Potential to Enhance Clinical Legal Education and Support Social Justice Work of Law Clinics in Nigeria Odinakaonye Lagi, 2023 This study explored what role reflective practice has in Nigerian clinical law programmes and aimed to understand how the concept is used in teaching and learning in law clinic practice and social justice work The theoretical concept of reflective practice in clinical legal education is still an emerging concept in legal education with suggestions for an integrative and expansive framework Leering 2014 Lowenberger 2019 Madhloom 2019 Seear et al 2019 Spencer and the concept that reflective practice should be an integrative process inclusive of cognitive and emotional processes The methodological framework used a qualitative case study situated within a constructivist paradigm that incorporated contextual background of law clinics in Nigeria and the complexities law clinics face in dealing with their intervention in social justice issues Data collection was through in depth semi structured interviews with open ended questions I interviewed six participants comprised of clinical law teachers selected through purposeful sampling and data analysis was a comparative process moving from inductive to deductive processes by identifying meaningful and relevant themes Merriam b reflections occurred during out of classroom experiential learning at different stages of law clinic practice cycle and community outreaches c reflection supported learning and helped to address issues brought forward as a result of emotions triggered during law clinic activities d participants connected their practice to theory and provided a framing of reflective practice which had not existed prior to this study and e reflective practice was fundamental in assessing the impact of clinical legal education on students and teachers in the development of professional skills and social values and communities in addressing legal needs Teaching clinically was seen as reflective teaching which holistically integrated critical reflection reflection in action and reflection on action and created space for the role of emotions and relational learning in legal practice Law clinic practice evoked deep emotions for students when exposed to societal harms and the criminal justice system The study however indicated that reflective practice was implicitly an integral part of clinical legal education that needed to be made more explicit through increased documentation of processes to promote transferability of knowledge and practice in legal education The study provided a theoretical guide in framing and supporting a framework for an expansive concept of reflective practice for clinical legal education and for the legal profession

Reinventing Legal Education Alberto Alemanno, Lamin Khadar, 2018-05-24 European legal teaching historically formalistic doctrinal hierarchical and passive is coming under increasing pressure to reimagine itself as pragmatic policy aware and action oriented Out of this context a bottom up movement of university law clinics appears to be emerging in Europe Although intellectually indebted to the US model the European variant reflects legal education and practice in Europe specifically the multi layered and multi genetic legal landscape resulting from the Europeanization and internationalization of national legal systems the globalization of European legal markets and the growing demand for civic engagement in view of increasingly powerful supra national institutions Through the prism of clinical legal education Reinventing Legal Education is the first attempt to gather scholarly and systematic reflections on the developments taking place in European legal teaching and practice This groundbreaking book should be read by anyone interested in how clinical legal education is reinventing legal education in Europe Epistemic Communities at the Boundaries of Law Cecilia Blengino, Andrés Gascón-Cuenca, 2019 As richly described in the various chapters of this book we see that clinics can act as a window to the functioning of law and the legal system Clinics allow students and faculty to see how laws and the legal system are functioning for groups of people who otherwise likely would not be a part of the common experience of professors and their students poor people generally migrants and refugees women and children exploited by trafficking people with disabilities ethnic minorities prisoners and so on Legal systems the world over tend to give less care and attention to the problems of the poor and other disempowered groups and such people usually lack access to well educated legal advocates to help them fight to make the legal system work for them Through clinic cases students and faculty see the day today lives of people marginalized by the society see how the law affects and influences their lives and see how it serves or fails to serve them For law professors involved in clinical education such as the authors of this book heightened awareness of the law s operation for poor people adds another important perspective to the subjects of their research and work as commentators on the law Students can also be inspired to select topics for research papers master or PhD theses by exposure to problems in the law and legal system as it functions for their clients Dall introduzione Developing Expertise for Teaching in Higher Education Helen King, 2022-03-21 This book provides a contemporary view of the characteristics of expertise for teaching in higher education based on the strong foundation of research into expertise and empirical and practical knowledge of the development of teaching in higher education Taking key themes related to the characteristics of expertise this edited collection delivers practical ideas for supporting and enabling professional learning and development in higher education as well as theoretical constructs for the basis of personal reflection on practice Providing an accessible evidence informed theoretical framework designed to support individuals wishing to improve their teaching Developing Expertise for Teaching in Higher Education considers teaching excellence from an expertise perspective and discusses how it might be supported and available to all It invites a call to action to all policymakers and strategic leaders who make a claim for teaching excellence to consider how professional learning and the development of expertise can be embedded in the culture environment and ways of working in higher education institutions Full of practical examples based on scholarship and experience to guide individual teachers educational developers and policymakers in higher education this book is a must read text for those new to teaching in higher education and those looking to improve their practice Wellbeing and Transitions in Law Emma Jones, Caroline Strevens, 2023-08-09 This book examines transitions from law school to the legal profession and their impact on wellbeing There is a significant body of evidence that suggests law student wellbeing is particularly problematic partially due to the distinctive nature of law as a discipline Similarly there is a growing body of international evidence demonstrating poor levels of wellbeing within the legal profession with lawyers suffering higher levels of stress anxiety and depression than the general population To date there has been no detailed consideration of the impact of these transitions on wellbeing or discussion of the best ways to ameliorate any negative effects This edited collection will explore a range of transitions from entry into law school through to progression to managerial roles within the legal profession Rather than focusing on discrete areas or chunks of time this book focuses on the process of transitioning holistically

The Ethics Project in Legal Education Michael Robertson, Lillian Corbin, Kieran Tranter, Francesca Bartlett, 2010-10-06 This book discusses the teaching of legal ethics arguing that the current formal rules governing lawyers are inadequate as true engagement with ethical issues requires lawyers to exercise judgment and therefore there is a need to rethink the aims scope and methodology of legal ethics education The volume presents the views of a number of internationally renowned legal ethicists including Brent Cotter and David Chavkin exploring and questioning the teaching of legal ethics The contributions examine legal ethics teaching in a range of jurisdictions including the USA Canada Australia South Africa and Hong Kong A number of contributors discuss design issues that cover a broad field of methods including simulations the pervasive use of problem solving exercises and real world experiences with some of the essays revealing their empirical findings on the effectiveness of these methods and particularly as they affect the students
