Personality Tests and Assessments

(Psychology Revivals) Philip E. Vernon, 2014-01-27 Originally published in 1953 this book provided the first comprehensive account of methods of personality assessment by a British author It starts with a short survey of personality theory pointing out the difficulties in any method of testing or assessment Next it describes the weaknesses of the common interview method Throughout the emphasis is on methods which are usable in educational or vocational guidance and selection not on methods which are mainly of scientific interest Thereafter it takes up each main type of technique tests based on physique or psychological measures on expressive movement such as gestures and handwriting tests of behaviour including War Office Selection Board house party methods ratings and rating scales questionnaires and so called projective techniques The evidence for or against each test or method is surveyed and numerous references provided for relevant literature Illustrative excerpts are given of many of the more promising tests and some pictorial illustrations British work in this field at the time is covered completely and an attempt is made to provide a fair summary of the main contributions of American and other psychologists of the day

Mosaic Patterns of American Children Louise Bates Ames, Frances Lillian Ilg, 1962 The Lowenfeld Mosaic Test as a Screening Device with Children for Possible Organic Cerebral Dysfunctioning Dorothy Mohr, 1966 Research Relating to Children, 1949 Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, 2009

Ruling Minds Erik Linstrum, 2016-01-04 The British Empire used intelligence tests laboratory studies and psychoanalysis to measure and manage the minds of subjects in distant cultures Challenging assumptions about the role of scientific knowledge in the exercise of power Erik Linstrum shows that psychology did more to reveal the limits of imperial authority than to strengthen it Gravity and the Creation of Self Elizabeth Burford, 1998-01-01 This book explores how physical structures that children create in play reflect their own inner emotional landscape Burford focuses on these physical expressions of the internal processes and their application in psychotherapy with particular reference to the pioneering work of the child psychotherapist Margaret Lowenfield
