Lubetkin Architecture And The Tradition Of Progress:

Berthold Lubetkin John Allan, 2012 Berthold Lubetkin John Allan, 2012 This is a comprehensive study on the life and work of modernist architect Berthold Lubetkin. This book reveals the man behind the architecture: a survivor of the Russian Revolution, European traveller and social commentator, an intellectual in Europe and a well-known social activist in Britain throughout the 20th century. Berthold Lubetkin John Allan, 2023-09-15 This book presents a compact and compelling account of the life and work of Berthold Lubetkin, 1901–1990, widely regarded as the outstanding architect of his generation to practise in England. It explores the key themes, achievements and setbacks of his career, drawing from the author's twenty-year personal friendship with Lubetkin himself, from discussions with former colleagues and from his direct experience of working with many of Lubetkin's buildings as a conservation architect. The study reveals the significance of Lubetkin's Russian origins and European travels, reassesses his prime work of the 1930s and charts the extensive output of his often overlooked post-war career. It also considers Lubetkin's legacy in the later work of his key associates, several of whom became significant architects in their own right. Lubetkin is a legendary figure in architectural circles while still remaining slightly mysterious and misunderstood. The author shines new light on the man and his ideas and assesses his unique place in modern architectural history. Illustrations include original black and white images as well as high quality colour studies of the buildings as they are now. A complete List of Works and published commentaries also provide a valuable source of reference.

Building Theories Franca Trubiano, 2022-11-25 Building Theories speaks to the value of words in architecture. It addresses the author's fascination with the voices of architects, engineers, builders and craftspeople whose ideas about building have been captured in text. It discusses the content of treatises, essays, articles and letters by those who have been throughout history committed to the art of building. In this Building Theories argues for the return of a practice of architectural theory that is set amongst building, buildings and builders. This journey of close reading reinterprets the words of Vitruvius, Alberti, de L'Orme, Le Camus de Mézières, Boullée, Laugier, Rondelet, Semper, Viollet le Duc, Hebsch, Brückner, Berlage, Muthesius, Wagner, Behrendt, Gropius and Arup. With chapters dedicated to texts from antiquity, the Renaissance and the nineteenth century and with a critical eye on architectural theory popularized in the Anglo-Saxon world post 1968, readers are introduced to a wider, more inclusive definition of architectural ideas. Building Theories considers how contemporary scholarship has steered away from the topic of building in its reluctance to admit that both design and construction are central to its concerns. In response, it argues for a realignment of architecture with the concept of techné with a dual commitment to fabrica and ratio with a productive return to l'art de bien bâtir with the accurate translation of the term Baukunst and with an appeal to the architect's composite mind. Students, practitioners and educators will identify in Building Theories ways of thinking that strive for the integration of design with construction, reject the supposed primacy of the former over the latter, recognize how aesthetics are an insufficient scaffold for subtending the subject of architectural ethics.

and accept without reservation that material transformations have always been at the origins of built form The Coming of the Aerial War Michele Haapamäki, 2014-01-08 In the first half of the 20th century the possibility of flight opened up entirely new avenues of thought and exploration In the age of H G Wells and Biggles the opening up of the air to balloons and planes the Royal Flying Corps was founded in 1912 appealed to concepts of courage and bravery which would be both encouraged and undermined by the experiences of World War I The sky also held new terrors for everyday people who were now within reach of an airborne enemy these fears included the possibilities of bombing poison gas surveillance and social control This duality of fear and enthusiasm drove the Air Raid Precaution movement while vocal elements in the press and in parliament called for radical plans to cope with apocalyptic scenarios Here Michele Haapamäki charts the history of flight and of war in the air in the early twentieth century addressing the key issues of interwar historiography such as patriotism fear masculinity and propaganda Berthold Lubetkin's Highpoint II and the Jewish Contribution to Modern English Architecture Deborah Lewittes, 2018-05-15 In 1935 the Russian born Jewish architect Berthold Lubetkin and his firm Tecton designed Highpoint a block of flats in London which Le Corbusier called revolutionary Three years later Lubetkin completed a companion design Yet Highpoint II felt very different and the sense that the ideals of modernism had been abandoned seemed hard to dispute Had modern architecture failed to take root in England This book challenges the belief that English architecture was on hiatus during the 1930s Using Highpoint II as a springboard Deborah Lewittes takes us on a journey through the defining moments of modern English architecture the high points of the period surrounding Highpoint II Drawing on Lubetkin's work and his writings the book argues that he advanced influential lasting theories which were rooted in his design for Highpoint II Lubetkin's work is explored within the context of wider Jewish emigration to London during the interwar years as well as the anti-Semitism that pervaded Britain during the 1930s As Lewittes demonstrates this decade was anything but quiet Providing a new perspective on twentieth century English architecture this book is of interest to students and scholars in architectural history urban studies Jewish studies and related fields Architecture Jonathan Hill, 2014-04-04 The aim of this book is to expand the subject and matter of architecture and to explore their interdependence There are now many architectures This book acknowledges architecture far beyond the familiar boundaries of the discipline and reassesses the object at its centre the building Architectural matter is not always physical or building fabric It is whatever architecture is made of whether words bricks blood cells sounds or pixels The fifteen chapters are divided into three sections on buildings spaces and bodies which each deal with a particular understanding of architecture and architectural matter The richness and diversity of subjects and materials discussed in this book locates architecture firmly in the world as a whole not just the domain of architects In stating that architecture is far more than the work of architects this book aims not to deny the importance of architects in the production of architecture but to see their role in more balanced terms and to acknowledge other architectural producers Architecture can for example be found in the incisions of a surgeon the instructions of a choreographer or the movements of a user Architecture can be made of anything and by anyone

The Experience of Modernism John R. Gold, 2013-12-16 Making extensive use of information gained from in depth interviews with architects active in the period between 1928 1953 the author provides a sympathetic understanding of the Modern Movement s architectural role in reshaping the fabric and structure of British metropolitan cities in the post war period and traces the links between the experience of British modernists and the wider international modern movement

The Chronology of Revolution Ben Harker, 2020 Based on a decade of research in over twenty archives The Chronology of Revolution is an accessible and richly detailed work of historical and cultural analysis that fixes its gaze on the legacy of the Communist Party of Great Britain Communists anticipated that the party formed in the world s first industrialised nation would be in the vanguard of world revolution Instead the party never came close to matching the political power of the British Labour Party or continental Communist parties in France or Italy and dissolved itself in 1991 In this book Ben Harker draws on the ideas of Antonio Gramsci to argue that the CPGB despite having great influence over British culture never fully appreciated the importance of civil society to its political strength Analysing members efforts in fields such as science journalism the arts broadcasting and education The Chronology of Revolution offers an alternative radical history of Britain between 1920 and 1991 which draws out important lessons for the contemporary Left

Re-forming Britain Elizabeth Darling, 2007-01-24 Re forming Britain considers the nature and practice of architectural modernism in inter war Britain in a new light Bringing hitherto little considered protagonists and projects to the fore it argues that rather than being an imported idiom the new architecture in Britain formed part of an ongoing attempt to make a modern nation Spanning the period 1925 42 the book focuses on the key sites from and through which architectural modernism emerged in the UK Part one considers the main arena in which a will to modernize Britain developed in the 1920s In parts two and three the author documents contextualizes and explains how this modernizing will was given modernist form discussing the work of architects such as Wells Coates Maxwell Fry and Connell and Ward and their allied ventures with likeminded reformers in other fields These collaborations produced narratives of modernity buildings projects exhibitions and books through which the book argues modernist reformers were able to persuade politicians and those with influence upon them that modernism was the means to re form the nation Re forming Britain offers the first in depth analysis of well known modernist schemes such as Kensal House and the Pioneer Health Centre but also brings previously little studied or unknown activities to light This important work invites a new understanding of the nature of architectural modernism in inter war Britain and the ways in which it ultimately gave form to post war Britain

London's 'Big Bang' Moment and its Architectural Conversations Stephen Rosser, 2025-06-30 This book explores the topic of architecture as a component of public discourse focussing on the reception of four high profile developments in the City of London the UK capital s financial district dating from the final years of the twentieth century During this time the City s mode of operation culture and built environment were all transformed as a result of the market deregulation process labelled Big Bang It was also a period which saw the subject of architecture attracting public and media attention becoming a prominent feature of national conversation The book examines the extensive and often contentious discourse generated by the four case study projects It looks at how these projects were viewed and interpreted retrospectively when they had become part of the City's long and rich history Topics explored include building and urban form on the eve of the millennium the place of new development in a setting of unique historic importance the iconic building and celebrity architect and the role of then Prince Charles as an architectural critic Also referenced are many of the broader issues of the day including the Thatcher government policies and the preoccupations concerning London's infrastructure public realm inner city areas and inequalities Furthermore ranging across the discourse is the theme of the relationship between buildings and global finance foreshadowing later controversies concerning London's post millennial towers and their impact on the capital's skyline The book will be of interest to researchers and students of late twentieth century British architecture and urban development London's history and UK public discourse in the 1980s a decade of profound political economic and social change

Walter Gropius in Britain Alborz Dianat, 2025-03-31 As the first monograph dedicated to Walter Gropius's activity in Britain this book provides a comprehensive account of the Bauhaus founder's contributions to architecture and design while living in London between 1934 and 1937 Drawing on earlier and later decades this reveals the close contact between British German and American design circles with Gropius bridging parallel developments In its approach this book concentrates on the individuals working to aid Gropius in Britain and spurring the architect's enduring dominance in English language histories. This includes his architectural partner Maxwell Fry, his translator P. Morton Shand, his employer Jack Pritchard and many other prominent figures such as Frank Pick, Herbert Read, Elizabeth Denby and Henry Morris. The vital role of Gropius's wife Ise is also highlighted, particularly as her English language capabilities far exceeded his. By uncovering this wider network, the collaborative nature of his success is demonstrated. Such an approach reveals Gropius's contributions beyond buildings to various debates in the period. These spanned subjects including standardisation, prefabrication, democratisation, the planning of high rises, the influence of commercialism and the reform of architectural education and practice. Beyond design discourse, the broader impact of nationalism is considered, with the support Gropius received contrasted against the attacks Jewish migrants endured. This book will appeal to those interested in the Bauhaus, interwar Britain, architectural media and emigration studies. By applying revisionist approaches and highlighting the importance of discourse beyond built forms, this book advances our knowledge of the period. The transnational focus holds significance for architectural developments in Germany, Britain and America following Gropius's trajectory. While concentrated primarily on the interwar period, the postwar impact of exchanges is revealed, leading up until Gropius's death in 1969.

Form Follows Fun Bruce Peter, 2013-05-13. Authoritative and readable, this excellent text, illustrated by a unique pictorial record of period architecture, surveys and examines how and why the architecture of pleasure related to the stylistic and ideological concerns of modernism in 1930s Britain. Responding to the current interest in modernism and packed with a substantial archive of high quality photographs and other documentation, it relates the professional, entrepreneurial and institutional infrastructures affecting the pleasure industry's architectural development and appearance in 1930s Britain. A broad range of building types through which the general public first experienced Modernism are covered, including commercial holiday camps, cinemas and greyhound racing stadia, municipal and governmental projects, zoos, seaside pavilions, concert halls and imperial and international exhibitions. Arguing that the responses to modernism through the architecture of pleasure were conditioned by wider debates about the role of design in relation to high and mass culture, this book is an ideal resource for all those interested in architectural history and design in Britain between the wars.

Mediating Modernism Andrew Higgott, 2007-01-24. Well illustrated, Mediating Modernism demonstrates how architectural books and journals have created the architectural culture of the twentieth century and that nowhere is this truer than in Britain.

From Space in Modern Art to a Spatial Art History Jutta Vinzent, 2019-12-02. This book traces artists' theories of constructive space in the first half of the twentieth century. Drawing on these concepts and recent theories on space, it develops a methodology termed Spatial Art History that conceives of artworks as physical spatio-temporal things which produce the social to overcome the reductive understanding of art as a mere mirror or facilitator of society.

Here Comes the Sun Ken Worpole, 2000-12. Here Comes the Sun looks at how social reformers, planners and architects in the early twentieth century tried to remake the city in the image of a sunlit ordered utopia While much has been written about architectural modernism Worpole concentrates less on buildings and more on the planning of the spaces in between the parks public squares open air museums promenades public pools and other public leisure facilities Life in the open was of particular concern to early urban planners and reformers with their dreams of release from the confines of overcrowded unsanitary slums Picturing youthful working class bodies made healthy by exercise and tanned by the sun they imagined an escape route from cities Worpole demonstrates how open air public spaces became sought after commissions for many early modernist architects in the early 1900s resulting in the transformation of the European cityscape a fascinating account of the political idealism that informed urban planning for the first two thirds of the twentieth century full of insights into how public space influences a sense of belonging and ownership The Guardian This is one of those books you stroke lovingly Open it and there is page after page of beautiful photographs this book combines history society politics environment and place in a well written and emotive text The strength of the book is the way it crosses these traditional boundaries and disciplines Town and Country Planning Drawing on architectural theories philosophy literature and even film making Worpole s book is wide ranging and erudite and should be of interest to the layperson as well as to the urban planner It is also elegantly written and complemented by a mixture of black and white and colour photographs to provide a visual emphasis to the points he raises N16 Magazine Bricks & Mortals Tom Wilkinson,2014-07-22 We don t just look at buildings their facades beautiful or ugly conceal the spaces where we live We are born work love and die in architecture We buy and sell it rent and squat it create and destroy it All of these aspects of buildings economic erotic political and psychological are crucial if we are to understand architecture properly And because architecture molds us just as much as we mold it understanding architecture helps us to understand our lives and our world In this book ten buildings from across the globe tell stories of architecture from the beginning of civilization to the present day From the remains of the Tower of Babel to the Summer Palace in Beijing built and destroyed by Europeans to the Ford car plant where the production line was born Tom Wilkinson unpicks these structures to reveal the lives of the people who built and used them Architecture has always had a powerful and intimate relationship with society and the lives of those who build and live with it It has often been used to try and improve society But can architecture change our lives for the better The buildings are the Tower of Babel Babylon Nero s Golden House Rome Djinguereber Mosque Timbuktu Palazzo Rucellai Florence the Garden of Perfect Brightness Beijing the Festival Theatre Beyreuth E 1027 Cap Martin Highland Park Ford Plant Detroit and the Finsbury Health Centre London History of Architectural Theory Hanno-Walter Kruft,1994 As the first comprehensive encyclopedic survey of Western architectural theory from Vitruvius to the present this book is an essential resource for architects students teachers historians and theorists Using only original sources Kruft has undertaken the monumental task of researching organizing and analyzing the significant statements put forth by architectural theorists over the last two thousand years The result is a text that is authoritative and complete easy to read without being reductive
