Making Of The X Feature Film:

Making Asian American Film and Video Jun Okada, 2015-03-06 The words Asian American film might evoke a painfully earnest low budget documentary or family drama destined to be seen only in small film festivals or on PBS Public Broadcasting Service In her groundbreaking study of the past fifty years of Asian American film and video Jun Okada demonstrates that although this stereotype is not entirely unfounded a remarkably diverse range of Asian American filmmaking has emerged Yet Okada also reveals how the legacy of institutional funding and the PBS style unites these filmmakers whether they are working within that system or setting themselves in opposition to its conventions Making Asian American Film and Video explores how the genre has served as a flashpoint for debates about what constitutes Asian American identity Tracing a history of how Asian American film was initially conceived as a form of public interest media part of a broader effort to give voice to underrepresented American minorities Okada shows why this seemingly well intentioned project inspired deeply ambivalent responses In addition she considers a number of Asian American filmmakers who have opted out of producing state funded films from Wayne Wang to Gregg Araki to Justin Lin Okada gives us a unique behind the scenes look at the various institutions that have bankrolled and distributed Asian American films revealing the dynamic interplay between commercial and state run media More than just a history of Asian Americans in film Making Asian American Film and Video is an insightful meditation on both the achievements and the limitations of institutionalized multiculturalism Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress. The Making of Horror Movies Jennifer Selway, 2021-06-09 A fascinating journey through society's changing preoccupations as reflected in horror films plus profiles of the genre's top actors and directors It wasn't until 1973 that a horror film The Exorcist was nominated for an Oscar for Best Picture and critics are still divided today many regarding them with amused condescension The public's view is also sharply divided Some cinema goers revel in the thought of being made very very afraid while others avoid horror films because they don't want to be frightened This guide which is for both the fan and the more fainthearted steers an illuminating path through a genre that has since the early days of cinema split off into many subdivisions folk horror slasher movies Hammer sci fi horror psychological thrillers zombie movies among others Times change but moviemakers can always find a way to tap into what we fear and dread whether it's blood sucking vampires or radioactive mutations evil children or the living dead This book also gives concise biographies of the many actors and directors who saw their careers for better or worse defined by their association with horror movies and who created a genre that is instantly recognizable in all its forms and continues to find new and ingenious ways of scaring us in the dark
