Belief and Religion in Barbarian Europe c. 350-700 Marilyn Dunn, 2013-11-28 This ground breaking study offers a new paradigm for understanding the beliefs and religions of the Goths Burgundians Sueves Franks and Lombards as they converted from paganism to Christianity between c 350 and c 700 CE Combining history and theology with approaches drawn from the cognitive science of religion Belief and Religion in Barbarian Europe uses both written and archaeological evidence to challenge many older ideas Beginning with a re examination of our knowledge about the deities and rituals of their original religions it goes on to question the assumption that the Germanic peoples were merely passive recipients of Christian doctrine arguing that so called Arianism was first developed as an entry level Christianity for the Goths Focusing on individual ethnic groupings in turn it presents a fresh view of the relationship between religion and politics as their rulers attempted to opt for Catholicism In place of familiar debates about post conversion pagan survivals contemporary texts and legislation are analysed to create an innovative cognitive perspective on the ways in which the Church endeavoured to bring the Christian God into people s thoughts and actions The work also includes a survey of a wide range of written and archaeological evidence contrasting traditional conceptions of death afterlife and funerary ritual with

Christian doctrine and practice in these areas and exploring some of the techniques developed by the Church for assuaging popular anxieties about Christian burial and the Christian afterlife

Climate Policy Changes in Germany and Japan Rie Watanabe, 2012-04-27 Climate Policy Changes in Germany and Japan compares two decades of climate policy development in Germany and Japan It examines whether there is any difference between the types and levels of policy change in the two countries and if so what factors account for the difference Using a comparison of climate policy changes in Germany and Japan from 1987 to 2005 as a basis it also discusses the effectiveness and the limits of existing theories of policy change and policy process most notably the Advocacy Coalition Framework ACF Punctuated Equilibrium Approach and Multiple Stream Approach and explores the theoretical question as to how long term paradigmatic policy change takes place The book lastly presents a hypothetical model of the mechanisms of paradigmatic policy change The two countries form a useful comparative approach to the issue of climate change They represent the range of types and levels of changes in policies to control CO2 emissions in the industrial and energy sectors dependent variables while also demonstrating similarities in a number of independent variables the size and structure of their economies their shares in global GHG emissions their general policy making styles including strong administrative systems and close relationships between ministries and industries and their general environmental policies Climate Policy Changes in Germany and Japan will be of interest to students and scholars of environmental and comparative politics

The European Social Model under Pressure Romana Careja, Patrick Emmenegger, Nathalie Giger, 2019-07-11 The European Social Model is at a crossroad Although from the 1990s onwards the threat of an imminent crisis shaped much of the rhetoric surrounding the future of the welfare state disagreement within the academic community remains What is however increasingly clear is that with the global financial crisis and the Euro crisis that followed it the challenges the European Social Model faces have become more acute and demand action This volume launches a multifaceted inquiry into these challenges Each contribution written by renowned scholars in their fields represents an in depth exploration of issues that cut to the core of current political economic and social processes They are an invitation to the seasoned scholars as well as to the beginning students of social sciences public administration or journalism to engage with by now a large body of scholarship to accompany the authors in their endeavours to seek an explanation to burning questions and start their own inquiries Heavy Traffic Daniel Madar, 2011-11-01 Canada and the United States exchange the world's highest level of bilateral trade valued at 1.4 billion a day Two thirds of this trade travels on trucks Heavy Traffic examines the way in which the regulatory reform of American and Canadian trucking coupled with free trade has internationalized this vital industry Before deregulation restrictive entry rules had fostered two separate national highway transportation markets and most international traffic had to be exchanged at the border When the United States deregulated first the imbalance between its opened market and Canada's still restricted one produced a surprisingly difficult bilateral dispute American deregulation was motivated by domestic incentives but the subsequent Canadian deregulation blended domestic incentives with transborder rate comparisons and concerns about trade competitiveness Daniel Madar shows that deregulation created a de facto regime of free trade in trucking services Removing regulatory barriers has enabled Canadian and American carriers to follow the expansion of transborder traffic that began with the Canada US Free Trade Agreement and continues with NAFTA The services available with deregulated trucking have also supported sweeping changes in industrial logistics As transborder traffic has surged the two countries carriers from billion dollar corporations to family firms have exploited the latitude provided by deregulation This book is a valuable contribution to our understanding of the policy processes and economic conditions that led to trucking deregulation As a study in public policy formation and the international effects of reform it will be of interest to students and scholars of political economy international relations and transportation Responses to Governance John C. Dixon, 2003-04-30 Dixon and his colleagues provide a behaviorist perspective on governance Their concern is with the governed's responses to those who seek to govern them their governors and the counter responses that they induce from the governors They take as axiomatic that the governed are not a homogenized and amorphous them in the them/us dichotomy reduced to what Carlyle called a dead logic formula thereby for the purpose of this analysis leave begging all the relevant questions The governed are not a disembodied abstraction they are an aggregate of men and women of flesh and blood In a corporation they are corporate directors whose governors are those who own or perhaps have a stake in that corporation corporate managers whose governors are the corporate directors corporate employees whose governors are the corporate managers In a society they are individuals or groups of individuals perhaps in corporations located within its jurisdiction whose governors are the members of societal political and administrative elites At the global level they are individuals or groups of individuals in countries and corporations within the jurisdiction of international governmental organizations and international regimes whose governors are those who seek to control those global governance mechanisms Whether the governed s response to their governors processs is one of compliance or antagonism and how the governors response to any antagoism has implications for governance capacity good governance and governability A provocative study that will be of interest to students and scholars of political theory international relations and management and organizational theory as well as those who are concerned with issues of goverance at all levels corporate societal and global Strategy and Partnership in Cities and Regions NA NA,2016-04-30 Policy makers in Pittsburgh Birmingham and Rotterdam are confronted with rapidly changing social and economic environments Public and private sector organizations in the three cities are increasingly addressing regional issues strategically and are joining together in partnerships to promote competitiveness and economic growth This book covers the complexities of modern governance under such circumstances the diversity and patterning of public private partnerships and networks and the changing economic development strategies of city governments and organizations Strategy and Partnership in Cities and Regions B. Jacobs,2015-12-22 Policy makers in Pittsburgh Birmingham and Rotterdam are confronted with rapidly changing social and economic environments Public and private sector organizations in the three cities are increasingly addressing regional issues strategically and joining together in partnerships to promote competitiveness and economic growth Local communities are linking to regional economies as companies restructure and strategy makers recognise the benefits of urban regeneration as an important condition for economic prosperity The book covers the complexities of modern governance under such circumstances the diversity and patterning of public private partnerships and networks and the changing economic development strategies of city governments and regional and local organizations Water Diplomacy in Action Shafiqul Islam,Kaveh Madani,2017-01-02 Complex water problems cannot be resolved by numbers or narratives Contingent and negotiated approaches are necessary for actionable outcome In the face of a constantly changing array of interconnected water issues that cross multiple boundaries the challenge is how to translate solutions that emerge from science and technology into the context of real world policy and politics Water Diplomacy in Action addresses this task by synthesizing two emerging ideas complexity science and negotiation theory to understand and manage risks and opportunities for an uncertain water future Rooted in the ideas of complexity science and mutual gains negotiation this edited volume shows why traditional systems engineering approaches may not work for complex problems what emerging tools and techniques are needed and how these are used to resolve complex water problems Beyond Wolves Martin A. Nie,2003
