Stories Without Borders Julia Sonnevend, 2016-09-09 How do stories of particular events turn into global myths while others fade away What becomes known and seen as a global iconic event In Stories without Borders Julia Sonnevend considers the ways in which we recount and remember news stories of historic significance Focusing on journalists covering the fall of the Berlin Wall and on subsequent retellings of the event in a variety of ways from Legoland reenactments to slabs of the Berlin Wall installed in global cities Sonnevend discusses how certain events become built up so that people in many parts of the world remember them for long periods of time She argues that five dimensions determine the viability and longevity of international news events First a foundational narrative must be established with certain preconditions Next the established narrative becomes universalized and a mythical message developed This message is then condensed and encapsulated in a simple phrase a short narrative and a recognizable visual scene Counter narratives emerge that reinterpret events and in turn facilitate their diffusion across multiple media platforms and changing social and political contexts Sonnevend examines these five elements through the developments of November 9 1989 what came to be known as the fall of the Berlin Wall Stories Without Borders concludes with a discussion of how global iconic events have an enduring effect on individuals and societies pointing out that after common currencies military alliances and international courts have failed stories may be all that we have to bring hope and unity

The Design of Frontier Spaces Carolyn Loeb, Andreas Luescher, 2016-03-09 In a globalizing world frontiers may be in flux but they remain as significant as ever New borders are established even as old borders are erased Beyond lines on maps however borders are spatial zones in which distinctive architectural graphic and other design elements are deployed to signal the nature of the space and to guide if not actually control behaviour and social relations within it This volume unpacks how manipulations of space and design in frontier zones historically as well as today set the stage for specific kinds of interactions and convey meanings about these sites and the experiences they embody Frontier zones organize an array of functions to facilitate the passage of goods information and people and to define and control access Bringing together studies from Asia Africa the Middle East Europe and North America this collection of essays casts a wide net to consider borders of diverse sorts Investigations of contemporary political frontiers are set within the context of examinations of historical borders borders that have existed within cities and virtual borders This range allows for reflection on shifts in how frontier zones are articulated and the impermanence of border emplacements as well as on likely scenarios for future frontiers This text is unique in bringing together a number of scholarly perspectives in the arts and humanities to examine how spatial and architectural design decisions convey meaning shape or abet specific social practices and stage memories of frontier zones that no longer function as such It joins and expands discussions in social science disciplines in which considerations of border practices tend to overlook the role of built form and material culture more broadly in representing social practices and meanings

Design and Heritage Grace Lees-Maffei, Rebecca Houze, 2021-12-29 Design and Heritage provides the first extended study of heritage from the point of view of design history Exploring the material objects and spaces that contribute to our experience of heritage the volume also examines the processes and practices that
