Werline, 2021-10-11 In Whenever They Prayed Dimensions of New Testament Prayer Rodney A Werline shifts the scholarly approach to New Testament prayer from source and genre analyses to seeing prayer as a cultural practice bringing new dimensions of the prayers to light Assisted by ritual theorists such as Catherine Bell Pierre Bourdieu Talal Assad and Roy Rappaport Werline illuminates the genius of the New Testament authors and the members of their communities Through years of embodied practice these authors and members acquired an aptitude that humans uniquely possess the ability through ritual practice to navigate and maintain their relationships with one another and together with their God Werline especially focuses on how their actions brought cultural memory to life assisted in receiving revelations protected them from demonic powers and established and fulfilled their obligations to one another and to that God The full import of these observations however is not possible without placing the prayers within their Second Temple Jewish context Jewish prayers outside the New Testament should not function as mere background but as evidence of a grand cultural enterprise taking place in which members of the early church actively participated New Wineskins for Global Mission: Sharon J.

Paul's Emotional Regime Ian Y. S. Jew, 2020-10-15 In his letters Paul speaks often of his emotions and also promotes certain feelings while banishing others This indicates that for Paul emotion is vital However in New Testament studies the study of emotions is still nascent current research in the social sciences highlights its cognitive and social dimensions Ian Y S Jew combines rigorous social scientific analysis and exegetical enquiry to argue that emotions are intrinsic to the formation of the Pauline communities as they encode belief structures and influence patterns of social experience By taking joy in Philippians and grief in 1 Thessalonians as representative emotions and contrasting Paul's approach with that of his Stoic contemporaries Jew demonstrates that authorized feelings have socially integrating and differentiating functions by reinforcing the shared theological realities upon which emotional norms are based group belonging is bolstered Simultaneously authorized emotions fortify the theological boundaries between Christians and others which strengthens group solidarity in the Church by accentuating its members insider status Using this framework heuristically Jew explores how the interplay of symbolic ritual and social elements within Paul's eschatological worldview reinforces emotional norms and demonstrates that attention to emotion can only deepen our understanding of the social formation of the early believers

Katherine Grieb, 2002-01-01 A Katherine Grieb insightfully traces the argument of Paul's letter to the Romans and shows how it is grounded in the story of God's faithfulness to Israel. She draws together a number of crucial insights: the narrative character of Paul's thought, the apocalyptic message of his gospel, the depth of his engagement with Israel's Scripture and the practical and political impact of his theology. She demonstrates the letter's relevance today and invites contemporary readers to locate their own stories within Paul's account of God's righteousness. Early Jewish Prayers in Greek Pieter W. van der Horst, Judith H. Newman, 2008-12-10 During the past few decades a great amount of scholarly work has been done on the various prayer cultures of antiquity, both Graeco-Roman and Jewish and Christian. In Jewish studies, this burgeoning research on ancient prayer has been stimulated particularly by the many new prayer texts found at Qumran, which have shed new light on several long-standing problems. The present volume intends to make a new contribution to the ongoing scholarly debate on ancient Jewish prayer texts by focusing on a limited set of prayer texts, namely a small number of those that have been preserved only in Greek. Jewish prayers in Greek tend to be undervalued, which is regrettable because these prayers shed light on sometimes striking aspects of early Jewish spirituality in the centuries around the turn of the era. In this volume, twelve such prayers have been collected, translated, and provided with an extensive historical and philological commentary. They have been preserved on papyrus, on stone, and as part of Christian church orders into which some of them have been incorporated. For that reason, these prayers are of great interest to scholars of both early Judaism and ancient Christianity.

Liturgical Time and Space Anscar J. Chupungco, 2000 The final volume in the Handbook for Liturgical Studies series, Volume V, Liturgical Time and Space, contains the concluding material for an integral study of the liturgy. It opens with a preliminary notion of time and space before discussing in detail three types of liturgical celebrations on which time and space have a direct and particular bearing. The first of these is the Liturgy of the Hours. This topic is developed in the light of the early Christian tradition until the fourth century and its subsequent forms in both East and West. The second is the Liturgical Year, traditionally called the anni circulas. The development of the Liturgical Year during the first four centuries is reviewed. This is followed by a detailed study of the Byzantine, Roman, and non-Roman Western tradition. It concludes with the theology and spirituality of the Liturgical Year, wherein the mystery of Christ as a saving event is made present in time so that the faithful may lay hold of it through the Word and the sacraments. The theology of liturgical space is drawn from the mutual interaction between the assembled community, which gives meaning to the place of assembly, and the place itself, which upholds and signifies community.
