

Brief Guide to APA Format for Citations, Quotes, and References

David Fendrich
last revised on 9/08

These guidelines were taken from the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (Fifth Edition). Examples are shown in boldface. This is not a complete guide to APA style, see the manual for more details. A more extensive on-line APA guide is available at <http://www.uwsp.edu/psych/apa4b.htm>. If you find mistakes in this guide please send corrections to dwfendrich@widener.edu

Citations

(always included author(s) last name(s), year, and page numbers)

Citations should be used whenever any information you read in a source is included in your paper. Citations must be used even though the information was written in your own words; you must give an author credit for an idea or finding. General knowledge (e.g., that George Washington was the first president of the United States) does not require a citation. When in doubt about whether information is general knowledge, use a citation.

Rogers (1994) measured simple reaction times.

Simple reaction times are about 150 ms., on average (Rogers, 1994).

- Old works where original date is known but source used is more recent (in the reference list give the reference to the source you used)

James (1890/1983)

- Very old works without an original date that have been translated

(Aristotle, trans. 1931)

- Citation of a source's citation – If you want to cite some information that was cited in a source you read but you don't have access to the cited source do the following. Avoid this practice, if possible.

Jones (1985) found a high incidence of drug use among high school students (cited in Smith, 1994).

In the above example, Jones made the finding that you read in a book by Smith and you don't have access to the original source by Jones.

Bond, Martine M. Caron, 1996. This bibliography cites those Canadian and foreign reference sources that describe Canadian people, institutions, organizations, publications, art, literature, languages and history. It lists books of a general nature as well as works in the disciplines of history and the humanities. These large divisions are then broken down by subject, genre, type of document and province or territory. Titles of national, provincial, territorial or regional interest are included in every subject area when available. The contents of the book are indexed four ways by name, title, French subject and English subject. And to facilitate browsing the major reference books, those dealing with more than one subject or a large geographical region are also cross-referenced. Two entries have been created for each bilingual document in order to provide access and bibliographical descriptions in both of Canada's official languages. Entries for unilingual works include citation in the language of the publication and a bilingual annotation. The annotations are descriptive and provide information on the content, arrangements and indexing of works, the availability of non-print formats, previous editions and title changes and related works. Canadian Reference Sources will be an invaluable reference tool for future scholars and researchers.
