Wittner,Philip C Brown,2016-03-22 Science technology and medicine all contributed to the emerging modern Japanese empire and conditioned key elements of post war development As the only emerging non Western country that was a colonial power in its own right Japan utilized these fields not only to define itself as racially different from other Asian countries and thus justify its imperialist activities but also to position itself within the civilized and enlightened world with the advantages of modern science technologies and medicine This book explores the ways in which scientists engineers and physicians worked directly and indirectly to support the creation of a new Japanese empire focussing on the eve of World War I and linking their efforts to later post war developments By claiming status as a modern internationally engaged country the Japanese government was faced with having to control pathogens that might otherwise not have threatened the nation Through the use of traditional and innovative techniques this volume shows how the government was able to fulfil the state's responsibility to protect society to varying degrees Chapter 14 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license     International Labour Documentation ,1972     The Water-Energy-Food Nexus in the Middle East and North Africa Martin Keulertz,Eckart Woertz,2017-10-02 This book discusses key issues concerning water energy and food in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region It provides an interdisciplinary account of current developments in the most water scarce and conflict torn region in the world Key analysts on MENA water agriculture and energy affairs have been drawn together to compile one of the first edited volumes dedicated to the crucial role of water energy and food security in the 21st century MENA region It will be of interest to decision makers analysts and students of the future of the Middle East from a broad range of disciplines including the physical and social sciences This book was previously published as a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Development     International Who's who in Asian Studies ,1975

East Asian Development Model Shiping Hua,Ruihua Hu,2014-12-17 Given the impressive growth in East Asia after World War II initially led by Japan the region's development models have been scrutinized since the 1980s The shared Confucian cultural heritage strong government guidance and export led economies were often cited as contributors to the impressive growth However major changes have taken place in Asia on and around the turn of the century Japan experienced two decades of economic slow down while World Bank figures reveal that China is poised to become the largest economy in the world in 2014 overtaking the United States Bearing this in mind is it even possible to formulate an East Asian development model in the context of a shifting twenty first century And if so what is it This book addresses this issue by looking at the economic political and cultural perspectives of China Japan and South Korea focusing on dynamism and potential consensus regarding an East Asian development model The chapters offer a historical background to the East Asian development model as well as in depth case studies of each of the countries concerned to show that whilst the East Asian development model does have distinct characteristics as compared with other areas and other countries may draw some insights from the East Asian experience it is not a panacea that fits all circumstances and fits all times This book will be welcomed by students and scholars of Asian economics Asian politics international political economy and development studies
