Biopolitics, Militarism, and Development David O'Kane, Tricia M. Redeker Hepner, 2009 Bringing together original contemporary ethnographic research on the Northeast African state of Eritrea this book shows how biopolitics the state led deployment of disciplinary technologies on individuals and population groups is assuming particular forms in the twenty first century Once hailed as the African country that works Eritrea s apparently successful post independence development has since lapsed into economic crisis and severe human rights violations This is due not only to the border war with Ethiopia that began in 1998 but is also the result of discernible tendencies in the high modernist style of social mobilization for development first adopted by the Eritrean government during the liberation struggle 1961 1991 and later carried into the post independence era The contributions to this volume reveal and interpret the links between development and developmentalist ideologies intensifying militarism and the controlling and disciplining of human lives and bodies by state institutions policies and discourses Also assessed are the multiple consequences of these policies for the Eritrean people and the ways in which such policies are resisted or subverted This insightful comparative volume places the Eritrean case in a broader global and transnational context

The Tension Between The Author S Academic And Practitioner Worldviews The Author Has Tried To Highlight One Principal Concern In This Volume That Development Is More Often Than Not A Multicultural Construct Of Everyday Politics That Is Context Bound And Predicated By Statements Of Informed Choices On The Part Of The Stakeholders And Or Beneficiaries Involved So Development Is More About Who Gets What When How Where And Why In Terms Of An Authoritative Allocation Of Values That Is Underpinned By Definitions Of Stakeholders Or Beneficiaries Or Affected Persons Such Definitions Are Power Statements That Are Scripted By Agencies That Generally Tend To View Development As An Unevenness That May Be Restructured In Terms Of Human And Physical Engineering As A Level Playing Ground Where Players Are Equipped With Uniform Access To Resources And Similar Opportunities This Is However A Contentious Issue Without Any Simple Answers Such An Interventionist Approach May Not Always Be Sponsored By The Mode Of Production Or The Marketplace Of Politics That By Definition Thrives On Discrepancies And Discriminations Among Unequally Affected Persons The Present Work Will Be Of Interest To Political Sociologists Economic And Social Historians Development Consultants Non Profit Professionals Social Workers Grassroots Activists Urban Planners Academics As Well As Researchers Working In The Development Sector

Immigration Judges and U.S. Asylum Policy Banks Miller,Linda Camp Keith,Jennifer S. Holmes,2015 Although there are legal norms to secure the uniform treatment of asylum claims in the United States anecdotal and empirical evidence suggest that strategic and economic interests also influence asylum outcomes Previous research has demonstrated considerable variation in how immigration judges decide seemingly similar cases which implies a host of legal concerns not the least of which is whether judicial bias is more determinative of the decision to admit those fleeing persecution to the United States than is the merit of the claim These disparities also raise important policy considerations about how to fix what many perceive to be a broken adjudication system With theoretical sophistication and empirical rigor Immigration Judges and U S Asylum Policy investigates more than 500 000 asylum cases that were decided by U S immigration judges between 1990 and 2010 The authors find that judges treat certain facts about an asylum applicant more objectively than others facts determined to be legally relevant tend to be treated similarly by judges of different political ideologies while facts considered extralegal are treated subjectively Furthermore the authors examine how local economic and political conditions as well as congressional reforms have affected outcomes in asylum cases concluding with a series of policy recommendations aimed at improving the quality of immigration law decision making rather than trying to reduce disparities between decision makers

The Human Cost of African Migrations ,      The Enigma of Ethnicity Wilbur Zelinsky, 2001-04 In The Enigma of Ethnicity Wilbur Zelinsky draws upon more than half a century of exploring the cultural and social geography of an ever changing North America to become both biographer and critic of the recent concept of ethnicity In this ambitious and encyclopedic work he examines ethnicity's definition evolution significance implications and entanglements with other phenomena as well as the mysteries of ethnic identity and performance Zelinsky begins by examining the ways in which ethnic groups and ethnicity have been defined his own definitions then become the basis for the rest of his study He next focuses on the concepts of heterolocalism the possibility that an ethnic community can exist without being physically merged and personal identity the relatively recent idea that one can concoct one's own identity In his final chapter which is also his most provocative he concentrates on the multifaceted phenomenon of multiculturalism and its relationship to ethnicity Throughout he includes a close look at African Americans Hispanics and Jews as well as such less studied groups as suburbanized Japanese Cubans in Washington Koreans Lithuanian immigrants in Chicago Estonians in New Jersey Danish Americans in Seattle and Finns Reasonable nonpolemical and straightforward Zelinsky's text is invaluable for readers wanting an in depth overview of the literature on ethnicity in the United States as well as a well thought out understanding of the meanings and dynamics of ethnic groups ethnicity and multiculturalism course of decades abroad Ultimately Shelemay shows that musicians are uniquely positioned to serve this sentinel role as both guardians and challengers of cultural heritage
