

The background of the entire image is a dense, woven pattern in shades of brown and tan. In the center, a large, stylized ring dove is depicted in white with a bright orange-red patch on its neck and another on its wing. The dove is facing right. A black snake with a white underbelly and a jagged black border is coiled around the bottom of the dove. The snake's head is raised, with its tongue flicking out. The text "RINGDOVES AND SNAKES" is written across the dove's body in a stylized, outlined font. Below the dove, the author's name "PATIENCE GRAY" is written in a similar font.

Ring Doves and Snakes Patience Gray, 1989 An autobiographical account of a year spent in Greece Fasting and Feasting Adam Federman, 2018-09-14 For more than 30 years Patience Gray author of the celebrated cookbook Honey from a Weed lived in a remote area of Puglia in southernmost Italy She lived without electricity modern plumbing or a telephone grew much of her own food and gathered and ate wild plants alongside her neighbors in this economically impoverished region She was fond of saying that she wrote only for herself and her friends yet her growing reputation brought a steady stream of international visitors to her door This simple and isolated life she chose for herself may help explain her relative obscurity when compared to the other great food writers of her time M F K Fisher Elizabeth David and Julia Child So it is not surprising that when Gray died in 2005 the BBC described her as an almost forgotten culinary star Yet her influence particularly among chefs and other food writers has had a lasting and profound effect on the way we view and celebrate good food and regional cuisines Gray's prescience was unrivaled She wrote about what today we would call the Mediterranean diet and Slow Food from foraging to eating locally long before they became part of the cultural mainstream Imagine if Michael Pollan or Barbara Kingsolver had spent several decades living among Italian Greek and Catalan peasants recording their recipes and the significance of food and food gathering to their way of life In Fasting and Feasting biographer Adam Federman tells the remarkable and until now untold life story of Patience Gray from her privileged and intellectual upbringing in England to her trials as a single mother during World War II to her career working as a designer editor translator and author and describing her travels and culinary adventures in later years A fascinating and spirited woman Patience Gray was very much a part of her times but very clearly ahead of them Fasting and Feasting (UK Edition) Adam Federman, 2017-06-07 Patience Gray emerges from this life as an utterly original spirit who was one of the few to rebel against the change in direction that eating had taken in modern times Bee Wilson The Sunday Times A New York Times Notable Book for 2017 For more than thirty years Patience Gray author of the celebrated cookbook Honey from a Weed lived in a remote area of Puglia in southernmost Italy She lived without electricity modern plumbing or a telephone grew much of her own food and gathered and ate wild plants alongside her neighbors in this economically impoverished region She was fond of saying that she wrote only for herself and her friends yet her growing reputation brought a steady stream of international visitors to her door This simple and isolated life she chose for herself may help explain her relative obscurity when compared to the other great food writers of her time M F K Fisher Elizabeth David and Julia Child So it is not surprising that when Gray died in 2005 the BBC described her as an almost forgotten culinary star Yet her influence particularly among chefs and other food writers has had a lasting and profound effect on the way we view and celebrate good food and regional cuisines Gray's prescience was unrivaled She wrote about what today we would call the Slow Food movement from foraging to eating locally long before it became part of the cultural mainstream Imagine if Michael Pollan or

Barbara Kingsolver had spent several decades living among Italian Greek and Catalan peasants recording their recipes and the significance of food and food gathering to their way of life In Fasting and Feasting biographer Adam Federman tells the remarkable and until now untold life story of Patience Gray from her privileged and intellectual upbringing in England to her trials as a single mother during World War II to her career working as a designer editor translator and author and describing her travels and culinary adventures in later years A fascinating and spirited woman Patience Gray was very much a part of her times but very clearly ahead of them East End Paradise Jojo Tullloh,2013-09-30 Those of us living in towns and cities might think that the pleasures of growing our own food watching the seasons pass with the changing produce and getting our hands stuck into the soil are beyond our reach But a growing number of urban dwellers are realising that there are ways of connecting with the land and enjoying the sheer pleasure of watching something grow without giving up the joys of living in the city Jojo Tullloh takes us to her inner city allotment and guides us through a year of cooking inspired by the food that has sprung from her surprisingly fertile patch of East London waste ground Stories About Birds of Land and Water M.
