Water-supply Paper ,1950 Investigating Connectivity to Advance the Predictive Understanding of Watershed Processes and the Earth's Critical Zone Dipankar Dwivedi, Ronald Erwin Pöpl, Ellen Wohl, 2025-05-15 Connectivity implies the pathways that link organisms energy and matter across different compartments of the Earth s critical zone it also refers to the links that key processes have to deep hydrological flow paths and atmospheric circulation systems Although connectivity has been long investigated in geomorphology the usage of connectivity in other cognate disciplines such as hydrology biogeochemistry and watershed science has occurred only recently A major driver for the development of a broader definition and investigation came from the Geomorphology Symposium organized around the connectivity theme in 2015 <https://www.binghamtongeomorph.com> Six key themes from the symposium included sediment connectivity hydrologic connectivity geochemical connectivity riverine connectivity landscape connectivity and connectivity modeling Since the Geomorphology Symposium in 2015 significant progress has been achieved in understanding the evolution of connectivity and the quantification of various aspects of connectivity and its thresholds However several opportunities still exist for unlocking the full potential of a broad consideration of connectivity and thereby advancing the predictive understanding of watershed processes at multiple scales and the Earth s critical zone Here we invite theoretical and data driven contributions that can contribute using connectivity constructs Topics of interest include but are not limited to 1 Elucidation of the current state of knowledge regarding the concept of connectivity vis vis six themes mentioned above in watershed sciences and the Earth s critical zone and its underlying theoretical assumptions 2 New approaches including machine learning and artificial intelligence that make use of a spectrum of data sources to quantify connectivity and the interactions between different types of connectivity 3 Novel frameworks making use of the broad concepts of connectivity in watershed and reactive transport models to understand hydrobiogeochemical dynamics and predict transient export of water nitrogen carbon and metals 4 Frameworks to quantify uncertainty and address inherent data challenges for diverse connectivity aspects collapse

Water-supply Paper ,1932 A Story of Six Rivers Peter Coates,2013-06-01 Many of the world s major cities sprang up on the banks of rivers Used for water food irrigation transportation and power rivers sustain life and connect the world together but most of us think of them simply as waterways that must be crossed on the way to another place Using four European and two North American rivers as examples A Story of Six Rivers considers the place of rivers in our world and emphasizes the inextricable links between history culture and ecology Peter Coates explores six rivers chosen as examples of the types of rivers found on the planet the Danube the second longest river in Europe the Spree which flows through Berlin the Po which cuts eastward across northern Italy the Mersey in northwest England the Yukon which runs through Canada and Alaska and the Los Angeles in California Creating a series of river biographies Coates gives voice to each of these bodies of water exploring how rivers nurture us provide cultural and economic opportunities and pose threats to our everyday lives He challenges recent narratives that paint rivers as the victims of abuse pollution and damage at the hands of humans focusing on change rather than devastation Describing how humans and rivers form a symbiotic and sometimes mutually destructive relationship Coates argues that rivers illustrate the limits of human authority and that their capacity to inspire us is as strong as our ability to pollute them An intimate portrait of the way these bodies of water inform our lives A Story of Six Rivers will make us reconsider the streams and tributaries we traverse each day Water for Peace: Planning and developing water programs ,1968 The Franconia Gateway Bruce D.
