Conversations with Barry Lopez William E. Tydeman,2013-08-26 Known as an advocate for the endangered earth Barry Lopez is one of America s preeminent writers on nature This invigorating book invites readers to sit down with Lopez and his friend William E Tydeman to engage with their conversations about activism the life of the mind and all things literary Even readers who think they know everything there is to know about Lopez will learn much from this richly informative book both from Tydeman s concise biography of Lopez and from the dialogue about Lopez's ideas and experiences. The three interviews and Tydeman's reflections on other discussions with Lopez gathered here address nature, human beings' relationship to the land, the tension between political activism and the life of the intellectual, memory and reconciliation, the artist's social responsibility and the business of authorship. What is the nature of the relationship between the writer and the reader? Lopez asks. It's reciprocal, contractual and moral. Lopez's thoughts on the importance of authenticity will resonate with every reader or writer, as will his deep commitment to story in all his work. He and Tydeman engage in illuminating exchanges on style and genre, the publication process and relationships among authors, editors and publishers. Both men are interested in photography and its relationship to writing, a subject on which they offer thought-provoking comments. A comprehensive annotated bibliography of Lopez's writings by archivist Diane Warner rounds out the volume. Nature's Kindred Spirits James I.

McClintock, 1994-04-01. In Nature's Kindred Spirits James McClintock shows how their mystical experiences with the wild led to dramatic conversions in their thinking and behavior. By embracing the ecstasy of nature, they reject modern alienation and spiritual confusion. From Aldo Leopold, America's most important conservationist and author of the classic A Sand County Almanac, to Pulitzer Prize winners Annie Dillard and Gary Snyder, and defenders of the desert, Joseph Wood Krutch and Edward Abbey, these writers share a common vision that harkens back to Henry David Thoreau and John Muir. To nineteenth-century Romantic ideals, they add the authority of modern ecological science. Collectively, they have elevated nature's importance in American culture, shaping the growth of the environmental movement and influencing American environmental policies. Widely admired among educated readers but relatively neglected by the literary establishment, these writers unite the experiential with the metaphysical, the ordinary with the sacred, the personal with the public and the natural with the social. Using ecology as a touchstone, McClintock further draws connections among science, politics, religion and philosophy to create an enlightening overview of the work of these kindred spirits. The Land's Wild Music Mark Tredinnick, 2011-04-14. The Land's Wild Music explores the home terrains and the writing of four great American writers of place: Barry Lopez, Peter Matthiessen, Terry Tempest Williams and James Galvin. In their work and its relationship with their home places, Tredinnick, an Australian writer, searches for answers to such questions: such as whether it's possible for a writer to make an authentic witness of a place, how one captures the landscape as it truly is, and how one joins the place in witness so that its lyric becomes one's own and enters into one's own work. He asks what it might mean to enact an ecological imagination of the world and whether it might be possible to see the work and the writer as part of the place itself. The work is a meditation on the nature of landscape and its power to shape the lives and syntax of men and women. It is animated by the author's encounters with Lopez, Matthiessen, Williams and Galvin, by critical readings of their work and by the author's engagement with the landscapes that have shaped these writers and their writing: the Cascades, Long Island, the Colorado Plateau and the high prairies of the Rocky Mountains. Tredinnick seeks the spring of nature writing deep in the nature of a place itself, carried in a writer's wild self inside and resonated over and over again at the desk until it is a work in which the place itself sings
