Backroads of the California Wine Country Karen Misuraca, 2006 The Mountain Arapesh Margaret Mead, For approximately eight months during 1931 1932 anthropologist Margaret Mead lived with and studied the Mountain Arapesh a segment of the population of the East Sepik Province Papua New Guinea She found a culture based on simplicity sensitivity and cooperation In contrast to the aggressive Arapesh who lived on the plains both the men and the women of the mountain settlements were found to be in Mead's word maternal. The Mountain Arapesh exhibited qualities that many might consider feminine; they were in general passive, affectionate, and peace-loving. Though Mead partially explains the male's femininity as being due to the type of nourishment available to the Arapesh, she maintains social conditioning to be a factor in the type of lifestyle led by both sexes. Mead's study encapsulates all aspects of the Arapesh culture. She discusses betrothal and marriage customs, sexuality, gender roles, diet, religion, arts, agriculture, and rites of passage. In possibly a portent for the breakdown of traditional roles and beliefs in the latter part of the twentieth century, Mead discusses the purpose of rites of passage in maintaining societal values and social control. Mead also discovered that both male and female parents took an active role in raising their children. Furthermore, it was found that there were few conflicts over property; the Arapesh having no concept of land ownership, maintained a peaceful existence with each other. In his new introduction to The Mountain Arapesh, Paul B. Roscoe assesses the importance of Mead's work in light of modern anthropological and ethnographic research, as well as how it fits into her own canon of writings. Roscoe discusses findings he culled from a trip to Papua New Guinea in 1991 to clarify some ambiguities in Mead's work. His travels also served to help reconstruct what had happened to the Arapesh since Mead's historic visit in the early 1930s. Margaret Mead (1901-1978) was associated with the American Museum of Natural History in New York for over fifty years, becoming Curator of Ethnology in 1964. She taught at Columbia University and the New School for Social Research, as well as a number of other universities. Among her many books is Continuities in Cultural Evolution, available from Transaction Publishers. Paul B. Roscoe is professor of anthropology at the University of Maine. He is a frequent contributor to anthropology journals including American Anthropologist, American Ethnologist, and Current Anthropology and is co-editor with Nancy Lutkehaus of Gender Rituals: Female Initiation in Melanesia. The 1992 recipient of the Royal Anthropological Institute's Curl Essay Prize, he has an archival specialization in ancient Polynesia. Reports of Cases in Criminal Law Argued and Determined in All the Courts in England and Ireland Edward William Cox, 1855 The Road to the Temple Susan Glaspell, 2005-02-08 Eugene O'Neill is one of America's most celebrated playwrights, but relatively few Americans know the name of the man who essentially gave O'Neill his first chance at greatness: George Cram Jig Cook, one of America's most colorful and original thinkers and the founder of the Provincetown Players, the first company to stage O'Neill's story with all its hopes, dreams, and disappointments. It is told in The Road to the Temple, first published in 1927 in the United States and reprinted in 1941; this biography is the work of Cook's third wife, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Susan Glaspell. It traces Cook's lifelong search for self—a search that took him from his birthplace in Davenport, Iowa, to New York, to Delphi, from university teaching and truck farming to the Provincetown Players, to the antiquity of Greece. Part of Jig's story is told by excerpts from his journals, pictures, poetry, and fiction. Interwoven with narrative flashbacks, these entries concerning his day-to-day activities, as well as his thoughts and feelings, bring him to life for the reader. In addition, Glaspell offers finely crafted portraits of the American Midwest in the late nineteenth century a vivid picture of Greenwich Village between 1910 and 1920 and a moving and lyrical account of the life she and Jig lived in Greece where Jig died on January 11 1924 A compelling combination of biography and autobiography this volume presents a unique and personal picture of a fascinating American original London Bicycle Club Gazette ,1882
