Robert Louis Stevenson and the Great Affair Richard J. Hill, 2017-02-03 In his travel narrative Travels with a Donkey in the Cevennes 1879 Robert Louis Stevenson declares I travel not to go anywhere but to go I travel for travel's sake The great affair is to move Taking up the concepts of time place and memory the contributors to this collection explore in what ways the dynamic view of life suggested by this quotation permeates Stevenson's work. The essays adopt a wide variety of critical approaches including post colonial theory, post structuralism, new historicism, art history and philosophy, making use of the vast array of literary materials that Stevenson left across a global journey that began in Scotland in 1850 and ended in Samoa in 1894. These range from travel journals, letters and classic literary staples such as Treasure Island and The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde to rarely read masterpieces such as The Master of Ballantrae or The Ebb Tide. While much recent scholarship on Stevenson foregrounds geography, the present volume also examines the theme of movement across memory, time and generic boundaries. Taken together, the essays offer a view of Stevenson that demonstrates how the protean nature of his literary output reflects the radical developments in science, technology and culture that characterized the age in which he lived.

Too much work and too much energy kill a man just as effectively as too much assorted vice or too much drink. Flirtation does not matter because every one is being transferred and either you or she leave the Station and never return. THROWN AWAY Good work does not matter because a man is judged by his worst output and another man takes all the credit of his best as a rule. Bad work does not matter because other men do worse and incompetents hang on longer in India than anywhere else. Amusements do not matter because you must repeat them as soon as you have accomplished them once and most amusements only mean trying to win another person's money. Sickness does not matter because it's all in the day's work and if you die another man takes over your place and your office in the eight hours between death and burial. Nothing matters except Home furlough and acting allowances and these only because they are scarce. This is a slack kutcha country where all men work with imperfect instruments and the wisest thing is to take no one and nothing in earnest but to escape as soon as ever you can to some place where amusement is amusement and a reputation worth the having. 8 kutcha country IN ERROR There is hope for a man who gets publicly and riotously drunk more often than he ought to do but there is no hope for the man who drinks secretly and alone in his own house, the man who is never seen to drink. This is a rule so there must be an exception to prove it. Moriarty's case was that exception.
